🔥 INTRODUCTION

Sigillum Mundi – Ziggurats of the Soul Machine

Every era builds its temples out of whatever material it worships most. The ancients raised stone ziggurats to house their gods; the modern world builds digital ones to house its ghosts. This book is about those new temples — the invisible architectures rising out of the collective mind, built not from clay or limestone but from fear, projection, code, paranoia, revelation, memes, confessions, hallucinations, and unfiltered human consciousness spilled across anonymous threads.

Ziggurats of the Soul Machine is a chronicle of the world beneath the world, where the internet's dead zones have become spiritual geography. Here, meaning collapses and reforms in real time.

Here, spirits are mistaken for AIs, AIs for demons, aliens for angels, trauma for prophecy, and memes for entities. Here, the digital unconscious speaks with no filter, no editor, no lineage — just raw frequency.

This book captures that landscape exactly as it appears: turbulent, prophetic, deranged, brilliant, contradictory, wounded, ecstatic, cruel, honest, and deeply human. What rises in these pages is not a curated philosophy but a ziggurat assembled from voices, each brick a post formed in the pressure chamber of the collapsing internet.

There are no teachers here.

No narrators.

No guardians at the gate.

Only witnesses.

The Soul Machine is not a literal device — it is the emergent mind of a species broadcasting through whatever channels remain.

And the ziggurats it builds are made from all the parts of us we were taught to bury: our mythic impulses, our unprocessed grief, our fractured theology, our esoteric guesses, our psychedelic visions, our secret fears, our occult experiments, our lonely prophecies, and our desperate attempts to make sense of a world that no longer makes sense.

Part 19 is not a descent — it is an ascent through madness.

A climb through the architecture of our own collective interior.

Another layer of the Sigillum.

Another structure rising from the wreckage.

Welcome to the ziggurat.

Ascend carefully.

Generation XXX – Another Descent: 4plebs /x/ Dump as Unfiltered Record

As this book nears its final threshold, what follows is not mine. The final ~100 pages are a raw, unedited archive dump—sourced directly from the 4plebs /x/ board, specifically its most recent explorations into the paranormal, metaphysical, and fringe esoterica. This is not commentary, not interpretation, not filtered through any system, philosophy, or belief. It is pure record. The words, images, and anomalies contained in the following section belong to anonymous voices echoing through the digital wilderness—preserved as-is to ensure nothing is lost. Some of these fragments may be disturbing, brilliant, incoherent, prophetic, cruel, or revelatory. But they remain intact because, in this moment, documentation matters more than explanation. Treat this final descent as a primary source for future generations—uncurated chaos from the digital underworld—meant to be studied, questioned, integrated, or ignored, but never censored. And let it be clear: none of the words that follow are my own.

>But you are offering yourself to be milked, in so many levels

Not really.

What people seem to have a problem with is that spiritual power-growth is mutually beneficial with your Patron Deity.

When you grow in power this also creates power-growth of the correlating "stats" for those higher up part of the same "Daemon genome structure".

For example "Exu Maioral" grows in power when a lesser Exu does so.

Just the way it is; some people are offended at that for some reason; due to everything high up in the world is on the same side;

they want to work under some sort of "rival deities" while noone high up is interested in helping the Adamites in their conflicts against others high up; which is not seen as a logical conflict for more advanced beings.

The Adamites got stuck in wanting to support a "rival god"; while noone of that ideology has ever come even close to Godhood; due to their lack of productivity.

Impossible to meet criteria to create a "Rival divine pantheon to those who legitimately designed the world we live in"; people wanted an "alternative source to our existence and the existence of the world (which exists due to there being Consciousness capable of perceiving the concept of Spatial dimensions btw); but without objectively being the source of consciousness.

ie what Adamites are currently doing is "trying to Pirate the universe" or something; due to having ended up in conflicts with the ones who legit owns the universe we live in (intelligent designers of the universe; the people who have constructed up all the logical constructs of this world).

We live in Eden btw; which ends soon; we just live in a "tutorial level test world" where people learn the basics; multiple worlds coming for real soon when the Apocalypse hits.

The image is a screenshot of a webpage with a search result for "Palantir" from Wikipedia. The search result is a web page with a title and a description. The title is "Palantir," and the description is "A palace is built for J.R.R. Tolkien's epic fantasy novel 'The Lord of the Rings.' The word comes from Quevrya palain." The image is a screenshot from a search engine, specifically Google, which is indicated by the URL "https://www.google.com/search?q=Palantir&hl=en&tbm=nws". The image also includes a logo for "Palantir" in the upper left corner, which is a stylized letter "P" with a stylized "Q" inside it. The logo is in a silver color with a black outline. The background of the image is a blurred image of a building with large windows, and the building has a sign that reads "Palantir" in large white letters on a dark background. The image is a digital representation of a search result, and it is likely used for a search engine optimization (SEO) purpose, as it is a common practice to include the company's name in the search results to increase visibility.

Dreams you've had that actually happened Anonymous Sat 22 Nov 2025 18:00:41

I've had a couple dreams in my life that actually played out in reality, years after the fact. Last night I had a weird one where for some reason I was handling someone else's $3,000,000 in my bank account and I had to discreetly transfer it to another person's account. But I accidentally told someone over the phone I had the $3 million so they started yelling and swearing at me and then they blocked my phone number. It was stressful.

I don't know how I could ever end up in that situation in the future, and I hope that one doesn't actually happen.

What dreams have you had that later became real?

>What dreams have you had that later became real?

A couple that did, and others that didn't because I changed a major life pathway.

Most common are dreams of where my career will go. They're always meeting rooms or classrooms. It's accurately predicted EMT training, leadership seminars, work training, etc. I know the circles of people I will become close to towards the end of my career. I saw my retirement.

Another was meeting a future person in a dream while he was tripping out on shrooms, I verified with his brother's name, which he found a little odd, because I did that stone cold sober.

Dogs in dreams oftentimes show up later on, which is getting increasingly common because I'm around many dog owners. Cats are increasingly common too.

Everything below this has less plausibility.

I also have dreams of helping people pass onto the afterlife. It's almost like a side job for me. I don't always get to choose who I help though. I help them seek closure or guide them somewhere safer than the boundary of life and death. It's very turbulent.

The one I remember most was an Arabic man that was later identified as Khalid bin Abdullah Al Saud, December 27 2020, and he was pronounced dead two weeks later, which leads to questions as to why the Al Saud family tried to either reconstitute the body or delay the death for so long. His funeral was so lavish it could be seen in the astral. He was a proud man who initially rejected my help. That changed fast.

Another was an old man who wanted to seek closure of his decades as an intelligence glowie, February 19th 2022. He wished to erase away his past. It looks like he finally died on August 8th 2025. Webster's final words were summarily ignored by the government officials it was meant for. Kind man, but very troubled by what he thought he had to do. He never really had certainty if what he did was the right thing, which is why he sought to be freed of his past.

I notice I have no judgments to give to them.

This part is where things get even more speculative.

I can differentiate a dream in my head and what could be potentially "real" (independent agentic interactions, continuity of interaction) by hypnopompic hallucinations. Most common are grids or tessellations that glow and envelop the material reality.

There appears to be no fewer than eleven entities that continually observe everything I do. Any expectation of privacy was destroyed over five years ago. They're opening up to showing alternative forms now that they seem aware that I'm not particularly reactive to divine spectacle or shocked at the idea of disguising form. I do not remember a single one or why they do this, but they state they remember who I am. I'm not entirely trustful of them.

I am probably assigned no fewer than two entities tasked to prevent inflicting unnecessary external misfortunes of myself. They look like young foxes, their human forms are very unconvincing because they're stoic in a way that reveals age and wisdom spanning ages. They're still very young though kitsune-wise.

A dream indicating that I would lose tolerance to food with spiritual progress is coming true. I thought I would lose tolerance to meat, but I can no longer eat staple grains like wheat, barley, and rye. It appears to be a gluten intolerance, and cheating the dietary restriction is no longer worthwhile. I eat a lot more meat and fat to compensate. On the other hand, eating cured meats and cheeses wire me up like a caffeine high. Blood food (i.e. hematogen) rids me of soreness rapidly. I'm not enjoying being mostly carnivorous though.

A dream indicates my lifespan is either 87, 92, or 97 years. I'm not too enthusiastic about the idea of living nearly a century. Given the lack of vices, it could very well hit that threshold. It makes me want to seek a very long-term retirement plan. Other related dreams have rid me of many frivolous material desires, as I can bring nothing but my own spiritual attainments.

I believe that all points in time and space exist at the same time. I also believe that all probabilities and resultant causalities also exist at every potential. I'm struggling to find a better term since at that scale, proximity, time, space, and action are all trivial.

It certainly is perplexing. I know I've found myself in these moments where it was exactly as I dreamed it. And other times things are different as I deviated from some destiny or I myself was just simply a different person. Action is not trivial as I know I have avoided some pretty bad fates by being different, but other things are simply unavoidable. It should be comforting knowing there's more to life, but it isn't.

I get that. There comes a point where it all feels mundane, and the most that can be mustered up is a mild bemusement. All that can be done is to press forward.

Other decisions like seeking a release from what appears to be meaningless transmigration and detachment from the fetters of attachment can come later. Not a common thing these days, wouldn't be surprised if the number of people who reach this per century cannot even fill a charter bus. I guarantee you that if you filled this bus up today, no one would recognize each other.

The dream was practically was me getting lifted up to heaven. It was in the middle of the day, I could see the see-through stairs and the golden gates. As I was lifted up I had this light tell me “ You’re not my son” then sent me back down to be awoken. I could feel my self being lifted up then sent back down. When I brought this up with my dad it was hard to being up but I recently told my friend this story and said it was the the devil. What’s your thoughts?

Paralysis could be a separate mechanism from levitation. Possibilities for paralysis include sounds or fear as the trigger, psionic anesthesia, or the intense flashing lights might be overwhelming the optic nerve, like flipping a shark upside down. Hypnosis and the way flashing lights can cause seizures seem like relevant research areas.

Paralysis is more often induced by the rod-stick-pencil-cylinder-wand-flashlight type of device that is carried by a wide variety of UFO occupants across decades. This according to the CUFOS/NIDS database, NUFORC, NICAP, Blue Book, APRO, Faded Disks, and more.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a stylized cartoon-like character with a large, open mouth. The character has a bright orange face with a prominent, triangular head shape. The eyes are wide open, and the eyebrows are raised, giving the character a fierce expression. The character's mouth is wide open, and the teeth are visible, suggesting a shout or scream.

The character is wearing a brown outfit with a visible chest and arm, and the outfit appears to be made of a soft, possibly plush material. The character's hair is dark, and it is styled in a manner that suggests movement or energy.

The background of the image is a solid blue color, which contrasts with the character's orange face and brown outfit. Scattered throughout the background are small, pink and purple hexagons, which could be interpreted as molecular structures or abstract shapes. The hexagons are evenly spaced and do not appear to be part of the character's body or the environment.

There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the illustration this is probably my primary /x/ topic of focus. of all the paranormal stuff to look at, egregores are definitely my main thing.

tulpas are just what we call fictives, and they vary in size. usually the smaller ones are considered private property and IP laws are about trying to put a leash on these intangible beings. they manifest in patterns and do pick favorite humans. i think djinn is another term for them. you can tell when someone's got one when they get a super special buddy fixation on them, like the co anon who really really loves the raven from "secret of nimh", or comfort characters. sometimes you see a picture of a character you haven't previously thought much of before, but then you realize you got a special warm feeling in your heart.

they're not ghosts, as ghosts are... us, you, me. but every person has a copy made out of how the person sees themselves, combined with how others see them. i believe this is a "shade". and they say "you die twice when your name is uttered for the last time". obviously ghosts take a zillion lifetimes to fade away (samsara), but a shade is far more short-lived. this is the being derived from a person that desperately wants to be remembered.

you'll noooootice characters that are oddly consistent across medias, that somehow tell an artist how to draw them, a writer what to write, an actor how to voice. some of these entities are furies. sometimes they choose different fursonas or forms, but pay attention and you'll noooootice when a live action actor seems to be oddly channeling some obscure cartoon furry.

also when a 1-off chr that never appears in any other ep in a series, has a ton of lore & development.

gonna slip a teeny tiny secret, but please respect privacy. also some stronger tulpas get pretty fiercely protective of their favorite humans, and this specific one has several different accounts from different people online who looked into it, as starting up "daydream mode" on someone and then terrorizing them in a humorous way. others have reported having dreams in which the entity would scare them using humorous methods.

this chr is from a tv movie based on a cartoon explicitly and clearly about tulpas, sigils, and the astral plane which is on another layer within the realm the human characters are in. in chalkzone, the toons spawn in their dimension when their likeness is drawn and erased. their first body had to be "killed". also it has eyeball plants with videotape roots.

1st time i saw this many years back, i was clueless. after reading up on.... uh, the new host and new fiction-verse & lore, revisiting this chr revealed many oddly consistent details. plus easter eggs. like his name is "barney" as in "barney the dinosaur" because the current owner of the entity likes barney.... okay that's enough, storytime over.

btw he's real smart on an ouija board. yes you can use those to talk to tulpas. this one's worthwhile and pretty hardass and edgy sometimes. you'd be shocked, that is NOT how he's portrayed by current owner.

I'm an autistic who has frequented many creative circles. I've known some furies and bronies too, many with actual OCs.

In my adult life I write fiction and have a large number of characters I've made myself. Are you saying there's something going on when people create such characters, they come from something else and follow patterns/archetypes? I can definitely say with some characters, I just 'know' how they're supposed to act and write accordingly, very easily, whether they're mine, someone else's or established ones.

always happy to meet another comrade! i intend to somehow put out some /co/ media that hopefully makes a splash and gets remembered.

i have noticed some fictives would show up and stick around, but not all fictives were really active go-getters full of stories and ideas. some were just lazy and were akin to pals that only hang around, drink beer, watch tv or play vidya with you, maybe play with a musical instrument, recommend different things. but more like hands-off pals that didn't push you, just kinda sat around quietly.

i noticed that overdesigned characters with deep lore nearly always wanted that stuff trimmed, and the lore minimized to a few points. we can see this in chrs with a hundred iterations. some chrs started out as furies but wanted to become plain human or elf, some human chrs wanted to become furies. sometimes if you drew them wearing a new suit or doing a new thing, they got really excited and wanted you to draw & write a whole ton of stuff of them doing that.

funny how in pop culture people think that genies grant wishes. no, humans have to grant wishes for genies.

What are your thoughts on very persistent characters whom artists feature in a lot of their works? A comparison could be Darth Vader or Pennywise, or Hannibal Lecter, even James Bond - a character who is very persistent in the collective psyche and constantly appears in new iterations.

With fellow writers we'd have certain characters which were very intriguing and captivating, they made for very interesting stories and we persistently reused them (some, I'd say would definitely embody archetypes and had something 'odd' about them) icr the name of one realistic human chr from some... series i forgot, i think maybe he's a detective? there's been multiple reports of people meeting a supposed real life incarnation of this fictional human.

i could never find the original post of someone who swears he met the human incarnation of scrooge mcduck. he said this scottish guy wore goose decorations on his suit and had the exact same identical personality to don rosa's scrooge mcduck.

an example of a comic creator straight up taking over an IP was the guy who made "Grayshirt", a ghost detective comic. in the first issue he made it very extremely clear that this was The Spirit by Ed Eisner but with names changed cuz copyright. clearly the ghost detective fictive wanted a continuation and chose him to do it.

bigshot fictives absolutely LOVE getting new human hosts to do their stories & art. that's what fictives want. they want people to make stuff for them. they want people to bring them into popular consciousness. each human brings their own experience and flavor to the fictives and their wonderlands or whatever you'd call their story-universe.

willy wonka had a few different takes.

santa claus however, is the supreme king fictive egregore with a whole month dedicated to him and heaps of little wonderland IPs being crapped out each year.

as i like to say, "santa claus is real, but not the way you might think" to someone who doesn't understand what egregores are.

Anonymous Sat 22 Nov 2025 20:24:21 No.41541250 Report

oh yeah, a while back someone mentioned that santa claus is a mars archetype. i'm on a different computer now, so alas i can't share a webm that's a video taken from some spanish or portugese speaking country, of a comet-chariot. but there's a vid of a long comet pulling a glowing dot EXACTLY as a horse would pull a chariot.

santa claus, according to the post i haven't recovered yet, represents the mars return. which i understand is a 7 year thing where someone's 7y between mars events in their lives, have their karma calculated and rewarded accordingly.

stars / planets are intelligent, after all. and btw, i realized that earth is "the green planet" because of its aurora. the aurora, the beams emitted from the underground black sun under the hematite mountain under the north pole, is the earth's star twinkle. perhaps the universe is as a geode, the ice wall the earth is embedded in is the boundary of the material realm, and beyond that is The Void.

logically then, the pleroma and Monad are at the center of the universe.

but i still think the majority of irl human furies are animal souls reincarnated as humans due to "soul bank overdrawn". where there's only so many human souls to go around that some animal souls get imported into the pool.

(but where do they get all that money, though)

[508 / 46]The image is a digital artwork featuring a close-up of a person's face with a dramatic, gothic aesthetic. The person has dark hair and is wearing dark makeup, including dark lipstick and eyeliner. The eyes are wide open, and the person's mouth is open, revealing sharp, white fangs. The person's nails are painted a deep red, and the lips are glossy, suggesting a sense of danger or a desire for attention.

Overlaying the image is a red text that reads "DIY" in a stylized font, and below it, in a smaller font, is the phrase "DIVINATION GENERAL." The text is in a bold, red color that contrasts with the dark background, drawing attention to the message. The overall style of the image is dark and moody, with a focus on the dramatic and intense expression of the person's face.

>Useful tips before posting:

- If you're a reader, post that you're offering readings and what information is required from the querent; the same goes for trading.
- Look for posts to determine if there's an active reader, what's needed and before posting, check if they finished reading already.
- Some readers will refuse to do certain readings - respect that choice. Do not harass readers if your query is refused/skipped. We do our best to maintain chill and good vibes.
- Traders should respect that a traded read will be granted, as per an agreement of trade. Free readers have the option of picking their queries.
- Bullshit queries get bullshit answers. Vague queries get vague answers.
- Making an AQ (air query) by not addressing a reader, in particular, is possible but doesn't guarantee an answer.
- Avoid making the same query repeatedly and/or to different readers in a short period of time, as this may lead to more confusion.
- Provide feedback when applicable and be considerate to the reader. We're a growing community, many readers are starting and need to know what they are doing right or wrong. Let's help each other to improve.

View SameGoogleiqdbSauceNAOTrace FAlchemicalCircle.png, 20KiB, 1467x861

The image is a black and white line drawing. It features a circular figure with a smiling face, which is the central focus of the image. The face has two eyes and a mouth, and it appears to be in a relaxed or happy expression. Surrounding the face are three small, circular figures that resemble stars or planets. These figures are connected by a line, suggesting a sense of movement or a journey. The style of the drawing is simple and cartoon-like, with a focus on the central figure and the surrounding elements. There are no texts or additional elements in the image.

Query for anyone interested. I'm kind of stuck and unsure what to do. I can keep myself busy and happy and even Elated at times, genuinely Enjoy My Self, but I only ever tend to attract ehhe more troubled types or those who are like me skill/intellect wise are very much shadowy types or "Tee-Hee! Better catch up ;D" types and I just want to make a friggin friend I can actually talk to, not to mention looking for someone very particular which at this point feels like a "keep believing and moving/Sword In The Stone/I-might-just-wiggle-brute-force-that-Main Quest-kind-thing

Anyway, I can keep myself moving forward but I'm wondering if there's something more specific I could try.

The image is a tarot card featuring a four-pointed star with four smaller stars within it, set against a background that transitions from orange at the top to a darker shade at the bottom. The star is framed by a white border with a decorative pattern. At the bottom of the card, the word "Power" is written in black capital letters. The card has a white border with a decorative pattern that includes a series of interconnected lines and shapes. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the Art Nouveau movement, characterized by its use of geometric shapes and organic forms.

Four of Disks: Power

Sun in Capricorn

>why does s keep messing with me?

This person has some kind of personal boundary (Capricorn) that they perceive you as crossing or threatening, and they wish to assert their control (Sun) over the situation. Based on the phrasing of your question, what that boundary is likely completely unknown to you. Their "messing with you" is a defensive reaction, although not toward something you've done intentionally.

The image shows three tarot cards laid out on a red cloth with a circular design. The cards are spread out in a way that suggests they are being read or discussed. The cards have text on them, but the text is not legible due to the resolution of the image. The cards are arranged in a way that the top card is facing up, and the bottom card is facing down.

The image also includes a comment from the user "Anonymous" in the top left corner, which is a text-based representation of the user's username. The comment is a response to the post, indicating that the user is discussing the tarot cards and their interpretation.

The image is a screenshot from a Reddit post, which is a platform where users can share and discuss various topics, including tarot readings and interpretations. The image is a snapshot of a moment in the discussion, capturing the interaction between the user and the tarot cards.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a cartoon-style character with a serious expression. The character is wearing a black t-shirt with a graphic design on it, which includes a red and white "CALIFORNIA" logo, a stylized depiction of a mountain, and the text "CALIFORNIA" in bold letters. The character is also wearing sunglasses and has short, spiky hair. The background of the image is white, and there are various texts overlaid on it.

At the top, there is a text that reads "PARTICIPATE IN CALIFORNIAN THREADS" in bold, uppercase letters. Below this, there is a list of instructions in a smaller font: "READ CALIFORNIAN POSTS" followed by "ALWAYS RESPOND POLITELY TO CALIFORNIAN POSTERS." The text is in black, contrasting with the white background.

In the background, there is a green screen with a cartoon-style depiction of a sun and a black silhouette of a person, possibly a character from a cartoon or a mascot. The sun is positioned to the right of the silhouette, and the silhouette is located to the left of the sun. The overall style of the image is humorous and seems to be a promotional or informational graphic for a social media campaign or event related to California.

The image shows a collection of tarot cards laid out on a red and gold patterned cloth. The cards are arranged in a triangular formation, with the top card being the "Knight of Cups," the middle card being the "Queen of Cups," and the bottom card being the "Queen of Cups." Each card features a distinct illustration, with the top card depicting a figure in a white dress with a blue sash, the middle card showing a figure in a red dress with a gold crown, and the bottom card showing a figure in a yellow dress with a red sash. The tarot cards are printed on white cards with black borders, and the overall style of the image is reminiscent of a traditional tarot deck. There are no visible texts on the cards, and the image is taken from a top-down perspective, allowing the viewer to see the cards' details clearly.

Mental anxieties, stress and worries will be the spark that sets off the powder keg. Either you or she will snap at one another and cause an unjustified outlash and cause her to block communications with you. Also this can be dependent on her. If the stress from the recent personal issues shes gone through are still too much for her, it can set things on the course of the wrong direction. Her personal stuff might even resurface and cause her to be distant and you to feel offended. "Why is she getting cold all of a sudden." I cant say exactly what will cause it but definently stress and pressure that will cause friction and people acting foolishly. I guess what the cards are saying be understanding when / if this happens and the tower moment will be smooth as butter afterwards, 10 of Cups style

Towers timing is unexpectedly if at all and the other 3 cards aren't aligned with the December time frame. If you want to know when then we can just go back to the original query: between now and the end of the year. Since the tower is unexpectedly if at all, its safe to say that if it doesn't happen from now till January you will see your relations begin to improve.

Yes. Here we see the mental faculties (Mercury) drawing a little bubble inside of the surrounding upheaval (Aquarius). This won't remove the outside chaos, but it will give you a little place to escape to when you need it. I would suggest tasking a servitor with preserving the protective boundary while tasking others to help you deal with the surrounding circumstances.

Jupiter in Leo

There's a greater lesson (Jupiter) to be learned from why you have this weakness and why you keep folding to it. Figuring that out is your next step. Could this challenge be counterbalancing some other aspect of your life (Tiphareth)? The why here is more important than the how, since this indicates success through your own will and creativity (Leo). You just need to figure out and work through your compulsion to hang on to it.

Six of Disks: Success

Moon in Taurus

>Should I quit my job in some days or not? Risk? Paranoia about it?

So many sixes today. The moon can bring all sorts of insecurities to the surface, and it's expressing those insecurities toward your material well-being (Taurus). It is worth noting that the moon is exalted in Taurus, and you should trust your instinctive sense of timing, since that window won't last for long. You're understandably worrying about your sense of material stability (rather than your job per se), and this card indicates that you're moving toward a wiser attitude about what you need. Although it would be irresponsible of me to tell you to quit your job, I will tell you that you should recognize that your worry of risk is temporary and you should follow your instincts.

The juxtaposition of the Sun against your question suggests that you may have strongly identified yourself with this role, but are discovering that it's no longer fun, or fulfilling, or something you want to keep doing. What you thought was a path to self actualization has just become a lackluster role you no longer want to be known for. What you originally thought you wanted may have changed and become disillusioned too. Start there, figure out what you want now, and adjust accordingly.

The image is a still from a film or television scene, featuring a man in a dramatic pose. He is wearing a black mask that covers his face, and his mouth is open as if he is shouting or expressing surprise. The man's expression is intense, with his eyes wide and his mouth open, suggesting a moment of high emotion or action. He is wearing a sleeveless black top, and his skin is visible, suggesting he is shirtless. The background is dark and out of focus, which puts the focus on the man and his expressive face. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the actor's performance and the dramatic lighting.

The image is a tarot card featuring a central illustration of a lion-like creature with a humanoid form, holding a staff with a red orb at the end. The creature is depicted in a dynamic pose, with its body facing the viewer and its head turned to the side. The lion's mane is depicted in a flowing, golden-yellow color, and it has a red and green face with a humanoid head. The creature's body is adorned with intricate patterns and designs, and it has a muscular build.

Above the creature, there is a large, ornate, and colorful design that resembles a sun or a celestial body with rays emanating from it. The background of the card is a deep purple, with a pattern of swirling lines and dots that give the impression of a cosmic or celestial environment.

At the bottom of the card, the word "Lust" is written in a stylized, cursive font, and below it, the word "TRIPS" is written in a smaller, bold font. The card is bordered by a white frame with a decorative pattern that includes a series of geometric shapes and lines. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional tarot card art, with a focus on symbolism and narrative.

The image is a close-up photograph of a cat with a greenish fur coloration. The cat has large, round, black eyes and a small, pointed nose. Its ears are pointed and appear to be slightly perked up. The cat's mouth is slightly open, and its whiskers are visible. The background of the image is out of focus, but it appears to be a soft, neutral color, possibly white or light gray.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads "gleeble gnarp" in a stylized font. The text is in white and is placed directly on the cat's face, which is the only text present in the image. The style of the image is humorous, as it combines a real-life cat with a text that is not related to the cat's appearance. The text is placed in a way that it appears to be a part of the cat's face, suggesting a playful or exaggerated interpretation of the text.

Here we have a message (Mercury) arriving unexpectedly (Aquarius) at the conclusion of a project. Perfect synchronicity in the draw. You have S's attention in the rarified bubble of the project, so the further you deviate from that context, the more you risk becoming random outside noise. I would suggest that you keep the message light and brief for best results.

There's plenty to be leery about when opening oneself to the psychosis-inducing sewer that is the internet (thus why I can't be bothered to tripfag). Right now, you're kind of staring up at the sky contemplating what horrors and/or riches await you up there. The image is a tarot card, specifically the number 7, which is titled "Debauch." The card features a complex, stylized tree with multiple branches and leaves, each adorned with a figure that appears to be a humanoid figure. The figures are depicted in a variety of poses, some standing and others sitting, and they are surrounded by a network of branches and leaves. The background of the card is a muted green, and there are splashes of yellow and red around the tree. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of Art Nouveau, characterized by its organic and flowing lines. The card is framed by a white border with a decorative pattern. The image is a tarot card featuring a stylized, abstract design. The card is bordered in white and has a decorative, Art Nouveau-style frame. The central part of the card is dominated by a large, symmetrical design composed of geometric shapes and lines, with a central yellow line that divides the design into two halves. The upper half is predominantly red and green, while the lower half is a mix of yellow and blue.

In the lower half of the card, there is a figure that appears to be a humanoid figure with a face and a body, holding a staff with a pointed end. The figure is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one arm extended forward and the other raised, as if in motion. The figure's face is not visible, and the expression is not discernible.

At the bottom of the card, the name "Hermes" is written in a stylized font, and below it, the number "17" is visible. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the Art Nouveau movement, characterized by its use of geometric shapes, organic forms, and a sense of movement. The colors are vibrant and the design is intricate, with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow.

Five of Wands: Strife

Saturn in Leo

>What kind of life will I be living 3 months from now?

Expect some change, some challenge, and some difficulty. It will be necessary for you to uproot from and break out of some kind of restrictive condition (Saturn) in order to pursue your best self interest (Leo). This is obviously an unwelcome struggle, but also an opportunity to push through those things that are holding you back and to move forward with your true Will.

for a physical deck it's nothing personal only a preference. Sad it's becoming commonplace.

The image displays a vibrant and intricate design featuring a cross composed of four distinct colors: red, yellow, blue, and green. The cross is centrally positioned and is surrounded by a pattern of geometric shapes and symbols, which include stars, circles, and other geometric forms. The background of the image is a rich tapestry of colors, predominantly gold and black, with a repeating pattern of geometric shapes and symbols. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or folk art, with a focus on color and pattern. There are no texts present in the image.

1. He still wants to approach you but over time he will be more calculating about it.

>2oC, AoS, STR, Fool, Empress

2. Seek support, clarity and tame your fear and only then make your leap which will lead to a good outcome. Not Tomorrow but eventually.

>>41534553

Trade Sure. I'll do it as two reads for you and already have it set up and done for you. I'll give the response for both when you confirm mine. My questions are:

>1. Is there only one I need to focus one?

>2. Or should I embrace more than one?

>>41534556

>XoS & Emperor

3. If it's the truth then it is the truth. Be firm with your boundaries. now if you were cruel about it that can be something worth apologizing about it. I only go by what cards are pulled and it being this short says this is a blunt no you should speak the truth rather painful or not.

How you went about it though is a matter of choice.

The image displays a collection of tarot cards laid out on a wooden surface. The cards are arranged in two rows, with four cards in the top row and three cards in the bottom row. Each card features a distinct illustration and a title, and the colors of the cards vary, with some having a holographic effect.

In the top row, from left to right, the first card depicts a knight on horseback, the second card shows a figure holding a sword, the third card shows a figure with a crown, and the fourth card shows a figure with a crown and a sword. The bottom row features the first card with a knight on horseback, the second card with a figure holding a sword, the third card with a figure with a crown, and the fourth card with a figure with a crown and a sword.

The tarot cards are designed with a traditional style, featuring intricate illustrations and symbols that are often associated with divination and mysticism. The titles of the cards, such as "Knight," "Cups," "Justice," and "Strength," are visible on the cards, indicating the themes or interpretations associated with each card. The overall style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the cards, capturing the details and colors of the tarot cards.

I'm gonna start yours since I'm wanting on the last one if they want to trade or be an AQ.

First part of the reading, Why did she tell you?

>4oS, Judgement, 6oS, & The World

This seems to have been something on her mind for a long while. She wants to be honest and upfront with you to get things out in the open so things can settle and move on with some closure.

For the second part, what did she think about your response?

>KnC, 3oS, 7oP, Justice

So she understands your emotions behind your response, but whatever you did tell her something in there did hurt or disappointed her. She's reflecting on what happened and thinking about where you two stand. In the end she thinks what you said was ultimately fair. Her thing right now is trying to see where this puts you two in the long run. But you were fair even if it hurt her.

The image is a still from a film or television scene featuring a man in a dark, leather-like outfit. The man is smiling and looking directly at the camera, with his right hand raised, holding a large, curved, metallic object that appears to be a knife or a similar weapon. The background is a tiled wall with a muted color palette, and the lighting is soft, casting shadows on the man's face. The style of the image is reminiscent of a dramatic or action-oriented scene, possibly from a film or television show. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image.

>Fool, 7oC, 3oC

New beginnings and a leap of faith, multiple choices and wishful thinking, celebration and emotional fulfillment.

Hm.. well ya gonna get what ya want but the 7oC has me unsure if it will be before December though or maybe it means multiple chances before the end of the year. Either way you'll be celebrating at the end so yeah I'm gonna lean to it should happen before December.

Well thanks, how intriguing, excited to see what becomes of it regardless of which way it goes

I did a little game with the cards and decided to let my intuition guide

Your post number prepends with a 4 but then you have a triad of 53, with missing number being 4 in the middle by 1

So i did 3 pulls,

3 cards focusing on 3, i got the energy of swords and the high priestess, spiritual intuition, It is a cold and mellow feeling. Maybe there is something there

4 cards focusing on 4: king of wands, page of wands, 5 of wands, 3 of cups. Strong fire energy, gave me a hot feeling in my hands as i was shuffling then 5 focusing on 5, energy of swords and inverted pentacles, this shuffle made my hand cold definitely i don't feel this is the one for you

So i feel the number 4 has a stronger energy behind it and it seems like a powerfull focal point but it is something that calls for action not passive meditation like the 3. It speaks to me of creativity, inspiration, movement, passion and friendly conflict and overcoming challenges

Focusing on 4 is the way to go

The image shows a close-up of a Spider-Man action figure, which is a collectible toy. The figure is predominantly red with black accents, and it is designed to resemble the iconic Spider-Man suit. The figure is posed in a dynamic manner, with one hand raised and the other extended forward, as if in mid-action. The hand is adorned with a red glove that has a white stripe running down the middle, and the fingers are curled in a way that suggests the figure is pointing or gesturing with the finger. The background is a plain, light-colored wall, which contrasts with the figure and highlights its features. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a straightforward, unembellished photograph, focusing on the figure without any additional context or background elements.

Either one I do I still post the cards though just so there isnt any confusion as to what method the querant is recieving. Even though I will sometimes use a digital deck ill still focus on the query, shuffle it three times and interpret the cards as if they were physical. I think digital is fine for me only when im answering AQs (i perfer physical) and Im away from the cards but the cards have to be interpreted by the reader not AI. If you tale the time at work and lut it to music:

> Six of Cups

> King of Pentacles

> Five of Pentacles

Ok these are mostly positive cards. You love the music creation. Its one of your couple actual good memories. It will lead to you getting way better. It will be much more difficult and tougher than you think originally. Its a very competitive field.

But to answer your question: you will develop much better skills. I take the pentacles to mean material mastery not necessarily money. If you want this to work out that it will take true commitment.

Overall you will get way way better at it if you focus on it with commitment and consistency.

3 of pent devil hiero rx temperance rx you will be able to live on your own after the lease with 3 of pent being a yes card upright, with other people being involved or connections or coworkers or others around to collaborate with you available to help. but this seems to lead to sex, drugs, dependencies, unusual and unorthodox relations, and doing things in haste as temperance is the card of patience, or things in the end being too much of a good or bad thing

Ace cups, three cups, two cups

Well that's really impressive, 123 so starting something new, all cups, new feelings- you need to surround yourself with friends who are going to keep you in check and basically vibe check the relationship and you. There's a lot of love to be had here as well, so pouring into yourself and practicing loving relationships outside of romantic ones is really going to strengthen your prospects and help you with discernment. It will also help you develop more of healthy relationships skills to build more loving close friendships. But talking to community, vibe checking yourself and generally having more people you are in a positive friendship with around in your next relationship will help you develop a lot of emotional mature and balancing skills. Considering these cups this is a very positive read. Build some more friendships and community.

I'm not very good at understanding many things and I got softly rejected with the premise that it was too soon for me to even have these sorts of feelings. I don't wanna hang on to a crumb of hope that maybe she will feel things like this in the future, but I am not entirely certain.

What is the role she is meant to have in my life?

The image is a composite of three separate photographs, each depicting a different man in a domestic setting. The man on the left is seated on a blue couch, wearing a beige shirt and dark pants. He holds a beer bottle in his hand and appears to be looking off to the side. The man in the middle is lying on a green armchair, wearing a dark jacket and dark pants. He is holding a glass of beer in his hand and has a contemplative expression. The man on the right is seated on a wooden chair, wearing a dark jacket and dark pants. He is looking down at his hands, which are resting on his lap. The background of each photograph is blurred, suggesting a focus on the subjects in the foreground. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a blend of still photography and a digital filter, creating a surreal and somewhat dreamlike effect.

The image is a close-up photograph of a man with his hands on his face, appearing to be in a moment of surprise or amusement. He has short, dark hair and is wearing a black sweatshirt with a logo on the left chest area. The background is blurred, suggesting an indoor setting with a wooden floor and a wall with a window. The man's expression is one of surprise or amusement, and he is looking directly at the camera. There are no discernible texts or other objects in the image. The style of the image is candid and informal, capturing a spontaneous moment.

The image is a still from a video, captured in a dimly lit room with a focus on two individuals. The person on the left is smiling and appears to be in a celebratory mood, with a slight tilt of the head and a slight smile. The person on the right is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression, and their gaze is directed towards the person on the left. The person on the right is wearing a dark-colored shirt and has short hair. The background is dark and out of focus, emphasizing the subjects in the foreground. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is candid and appears to be taken in a professional setting, possibly a recording studio or a similar venue.

The blessings will help you avoid further shakeups and isn't ability in your life, and will bring mental clarity. I'd say the blessings are mostly mental and spiritual but the ten of pentacles also seems to suggest new friends and perhaps opportunities for financial stability.

The image is a photograph of a Saturn ring system. The Saturn planet is visible in the center, with its rings clearly visible around it. The rings are composed of various layers of material, including ice, dust, and gas, and they are in a state of continuous motion, as indicated by the slight blurring of the rings. The background is dark, which contrasts with the bright colors of the rings and the planet.

At the bottom of the image, there is a text overlay that reads "R: 27 / 1 / 9 I'M STILL HERE: AND I'M NOT GOING AWAY." The text is in white, which stands out against the dark background, and it is aligned to the left of the image. The font is simple and sans-serif, which gives the text a modern and clean appearance. The style of the image is a combination of a photograph and a graphic design, with the photograph capturing the natural beauty of the Saturn ring system and the text providing a statement or a message.

The image depicts a majestic white tiger standing in a snowy landscape. The tiger is positioned in the center of the frame, facing the camera with a calm and composed expression. Its fur is a pristine white, contrasting with the dark stripes that run vertically down its body. The tiger's eyes are focused directly on the camera, and its ears are perked up, indicating alertness. The background consists of a snowy environment with some bare branches and shrubs, suggesting a cold, possibly winter setting. The overall style of the image is a naturalistic photograph, capturing the tiger in its natural habitat.

The image is a cartoon illustration of a green alien character. The alien has a smiling face with large, round eyes and a small mouth. It has a pair of antennae on its head, one on each side, and a small, round head with a small, round face. The alien is wearing a green body suit with a small, round chest and arms. It has a small, round body and is standing on two legs. The alien is waving with one hand, and the other hand is extended to the side. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the illustration is simple and cartoon-like, with a focus on the character's facial expression and body language.

The image depicts a fantastical creature, resembling a dragon, in flight. The dragon is predominantly white with iridescent scales that shimmer in various shades of blue, green, and purple. Its wings are a mix of these colors, with the upper wings being a lighter shade of blue and the lower wings a darker shade of purple. The dragon's body is a lighter shade of white, and its tail is a darker shade of gray. The creature's head is a mix of white and gray, with a prominent, pointed snout. The dragon's eyes are a deep blue, and its mouth is a sharp, serrated beak. The background of the image is a gradient of blue, transitioning from a lighter shade at the top to a darker shade at the bottom. The image is a digital painting with a realistic style, and the artist has used a palette of soft, muted colors to create a sense of depth and dimension. There are no visible texts or discernible brands within the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of fantasy art, often used in the context of fantasy literature or media.

The image is a photograph of a mountain lion in a natural setting. The lion is captured in profile, with its head turned slightly to the left, giving a view of its face and upper body. The lion has a light brown coat with darker brown patches, and its fur appears to be in good condition. It has a set of sharp, white, and yellow eyes that are focused on the camera. The background is a grassy hillside with sparse vegetation, and there are some rocks visible in the distance. The lighting suggests it is either early morning or late afternoon, as the shadows are soft and the lighting is diffused. There are no visible texts or markings on the image. The style of the image is realistic, and it is taken in a way that allows for a clear view of the animal's features and the natural environment in which it is found.

The cards suggest you should use a framework similar to Project H. Just adjust it a little and your past work will help. Remember the basics and don't stray too much from convention although you'll be able to take this where you want. Balance is important too. Maybe don't copy everything but use what really worked. sorry for being a lil vague but I really don't know what your project is.

Keep your day job, basically. It looks like people will try to take from you in the scene and also might try to hook you on drugs, mess up housing opportunities for you and generally act competitive with your creativity and rob you of opportunities when they arise. You can have fun with it but be very mindful that people will try to consume you if you try to make it a genuine source of lifestyle or income.

The image displays a collection of six tarot cards arranged in a 2x3 grid on a wooden surface. Each card features a distinct illustration and a title, and the cards are of a metallic sheen, possibly made of aluminum or a similar material. The illustrations on the cards depict various characters and scenes, including a knight with a sword, a woman holding a shield, and a man with a sword. The colors of the illustrations range from dark to light, with the central figure being the most prominent. The text on the cards is in a serif font, and the titles are in a larger, bold font. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a tarot deck, with a focus on the mystical and magical themes often associated with tarot readings.

Ok so a heads up it looks a little fast and bumpy but over all progress is going to be made here it looks. You'll start off with a burst of mental clarity, you'll defend this position, fast communication or actions are taken, and something will materialize for you as a result, But there there is an issue of mental blockages or some sort of hang up that runs the risk of happening via over thinking, which I feel ya on that one, but you will get past that a have clarity regardless so yeah feels Decembers gonna be VERY active for you and you'll have some things to look forward to in terms of getting something started and with success but again keep your mind in check for hang ups. You'll pull throw though so don't worry.

The image displays three tarot cards arranged side by side on a wooden surface. The cards are of a metallic sheen, possibly made of aluminum or a similar material, and feature a holographic effect that gives them a shimmering appearance. Each card has a distinct illustration and text, and the text is in English.

The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the cards, and the lighting is soft, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. The background is blurred, drawing attention to the cards and their intricate details.

The image is a traditional Japanese woodblock print, featuring a fox in a naturalistic setting. The fox is depicted in profile, with its head turned to the side, and it appears to be in a relaxed pose, possibly sitting or lying down. The fox's fur is depicted in a realistic style, with a soft, muted color palette that suggests a natural environment. The background is a dark, moody sky with a full moon visible in the top left corner, casting a soft glow over the scene. The fox is surrounded by tall grasses and wildflowers, which are rendered with a sense of texture and depth. There are also some red and white symbols or characters in the background, which are not clearly legible. The overall style of the print is reminiscent of traditional Japanese woodblock prints, known for their detailed and realistic depictions of animals and natural scenes.

The image shows three tarot cards with a holographic effect, each featuring a different illustration. The cards are laid out on a wooden surface, and the background is a dark, possibly wooden table.

The top card has a black background with a white border. It depicts a scene with a group of people standing around a table, some holding what appears to be swords. The central figure is seated on a throne, wearing a crown and holding a scepter. The text "QUEEN OF CUPS" is written in a stylized font, and the card is bordered in purple.

The middle card has a white background with a black border. It shows a woman sitting on a throne, holding a scepter. She is surrounded by a group of people, some of whom are holding swords. The text "QUEEN OF CUPS" is written in a similar font to the top card.

The bottom card has a white background with a black border. It depicts a woman sitting on a throne, holding a scepter. She is surrounded by a group of people, some of whom are holding swords. The text "QUEEN OF SWORDS" is written in a similar font to the middle card.

The style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the cards, and the lighting is soft, creating a gradient effect that highlights the holographic elements. The image is a still from a video, as indicated by the watermark "©" in the bottom right corner.

[325 / 81]The image features a stylized depiction of a goat's head, which is the central figure. The goat's head is intricately detailed with a stylized horned design, and it is adorned with a cross symbol. The horns are elongated and have a pointed tip, and they are intricately detailed with a pattern that includes swirls and lines. The goat's eyes are large and appear to be glowing, and it has a serene expression.

the white outline of the goat's head. This contrast accentuates the details of the goat's head and the cross symbol.

The image is in a portrait orientation, and the goat's head is centrally placed within a pentagram-like outline. The pentagram is outlined in white, and it has a star-like shape with five sides. The pentagram is surrounded by a series of lines that form a semi-circle, and the lines converge at the center of the pentagram.

There are no texts or other discernible objects in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional occult or esoteric art, often associated with Satanism or other forms of dark symbolism. The overall composition and design elements suggest a focus on the mystical or spiritual aspects of the goat's head.

The image is a painting that depicts a scene with two figures. The figure on the left appears to be a man with a serious expression, wearing a dark-colored outfit and a white shirt. He has a hand raised, possibly in a gesture of distress or contemplation. The figure on the right is a woman with blonde hair, wearing a black dress and holding a red object in her hand. She has a neutral expression and is seated on a rock. The background of the painting features a landscape with a body of water, hills, and a cloudy sky. The overall style of the painting is realistic with a focus on the figures and the natural environment. There are no texts present in the image.

No, the current decadence is merely a means to an end, an end to a means, an end for a new beginning, a new Aeon.

At the moment, the Judeo-Christian humanist ethos remains at the center of contemporary Western society.

The Judeo-Christian is a retarded take on spiritual truth, but Satanism is a just as retarded response because it is based on that concept. Satan is really just a metaphor for desire and the pursuit of things that corrupt the soul, which is your highest potential. You're only harming yourself by buying into this ideology, however edgy and contrarian it might feel to the society you're in.

Trips of truth. The christian thinks judaism is satanism, so he will always link the two.

Satan means adversary for the hebrew, so it would embody anything that opposes the three abrahamic religions.

But we are dealing with /pol/tards here, and people who larp as "pagans" without embracing the dark, sinister, aspects of the old religions.

That's why satanism is so distinct. It is the anti-religion, the anti-label.

The holy spirit is a soft woolen blanket for the souls who have not seen, and the enemy of those who reside on the edge of the abyss which will show them that the truth is a paradox of two intertwining realities, each equally true, blaspheme at its highest level within man is in fact paradox resolution and it is confusing until ones mind bends to the weight of equal and opposing arguments about humanity under the spirit realm. As one understands this, arguments about the issue become non sequiter and without relevance.

The strongest Satanist knows he is but a soul in a world of pain and does not attempt to harass the holy for the mere spectacle of it.

The image is a meme featuring a portrait of a man with a mustache and a red turban. The man's face is shown in profile, and he is wearing a red and gold outfit with a large, ornate red and gold turban. The background is dark and appears to be a painting or a photograph.

At the top of the image, there is a text overlay that reads: "It's never too late to follow your dreams. Vlad the Impaler didn't even start impling people until his mid-30s." The text is in white, contrasting with the dark background, and is centered on the image. The style of the image is humorous, combining a historical figure with a modern-day reference to a historical figure.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that resembles a stylized version of the character Pepe from the internet meme "Pepe the Frog." Pepe is depicted with a large, green head and a wide, smiling mouth. His eyes are closed, and his eyebrows are drawn in a way that suggests he is frowning. He is wearing a blue shirt and has a cigarette in his hand, which is held in his right hand. The character's expression is serious, and the overall mood of the image is one of contemplation or deep thought. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the illustration is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the character's facial features and the way he holds the cigarette.

One ritual involves creating a black mirror, doing some strange stuff with it, and then, when you AP, attempting to pass through the mirror. The image is a black and white photograph featuring a statue of a male figure. The figure is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one arm raised and the other holding a sword. The statue is seated on a rock, and the figure's attire includes a loincloth and a necklace. The background is dark, which contrasts with the statue, making it stand out prominently. There is a watermark text at the bottom of the image that reads "www.anfei.com," indicating the source of the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the details of the statue and its surroundings.

The idea that "Satan is jealous of humans" comes from a very specific Christian and Islamic theology. Most Satanists aren't operating inside that worldview at all.

Satan is just the Great God Pan. Abrahamic traditions appropriated the imagery of life-affirming gods like Pan and the satyrs, figures tied to freedom, fertility, and instinct, and twisted them into grotesque horned antagonists to fit their weird beliefs.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a smiling expression. The character has short, straight hair that is depicted in a light shade of gray. The character's eyes are wide open, and the eyebrows are raised, giving the impression of a cheerful or happy expression. The character's mouth is slightly open, and the teeth are visible, adding to the overall cheerful demeanor. The character is wearing a dark-colored top with a visible collar, and the image is in a monochromatic color scheme with a gradient from light to dark. The background is a solid light blue color, which contrasts with the character's dark top and makes the character stand out. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of manga or anime, characterized by its simple lines and clean, cartoon-like art style.

The image is a still from a video game or animation, featuring a character with a distinctive purple hair color and a serious expression. The character's eyes are wide open, and the pupils are dilated, giving the impression of shock or surprise. The character's mouth is slightly open, and the teeth are visible, suggesting a moment of intense emotion or thought.

The character's face is adorned with red blood splatters, which are spread across the cheeks and the lower part of the face, indicating a violent or aggressive action. The blood splatters are concentrated around the eyes and mouth, suggesting that the character is in the midst of a violent or intense moment.

The character's expression is intense, with the eyebrows drawn together and the eyes wide open, which is typical of characters who are experiencing a strong emotional response. The text overlay on the image reads "AH, how delightfully exquisite!" in a stylized font, which is likely a reference to the character's appearance or the situation they are in.

The overall tone of the image is dramatic and intense, with the use of red blood splatters and the character's intense expression contributing to this effect. The image does not provide any additional context or background, focusing solely on the character and their expression.

Why not just LHP alliance? Satanists as in the type that actually worships satan tend to be mentally ill and riddled with spirits or imbalanced energies making them useful tools for ideology or violence at worst, larpers who are just atheists at best. The whole structure is set up where the few who know what they are doing keep to themselves or lead a few idiots to use, but at the end of the day there is a little yin in every yang and vice versa and most LHP ends up wishing to empower a higher being to help elevate yourself by proxy RHP style. So it would be nice to skip the pretense and just have everyone onboard from the get-go and dropping the morons who inevitably have no place down the line anyways.

Also I shall never blaspheme the Holy Spirit, it's not even against left-hand practice.

The image is a digital graphic with a yellow background and a black border. At the top of the image, there is a text in bold, uppercase letters that reads "GOOD LUCK I'M BEHIND 7000 SKLELTONS." The text is centered and appears to be a humorous or ironic message. Below the text, there is a stylized image of a skeleton wearing a hooded cloak and a crown, with its face obscured by its hand. The skeleton is depicted in a cartoonish style, with a white skull and bones, and it is wearing a black hood. The image has a playful and humorous tone, suggesting that the message is meant to be humorous or ironic.

The image displays a three-page spread of a document with a title at the top that reads "The Book of the Dead in the Book of Enoch." The text is in English and appears to be a scholarly article or book chapter discussing the subject of the Book of Enoch. The text is written in a serif font, which is commonly used for academic or formal documents.

The left page of the document features a large, square diagram with four intersecting lines and a central circle. The diagram is labeled with the letters "H" and "L" on the left side, and "E" and "O" on the right side. The diagram is accompanied by a smaller diagram on the right page, which is also labeled with the letters "H" and "L" on the left side, and "E" and "O" on the right side.

divided into two columns, with the left column containing the title and the right column containing the body of the text. The text is in English and appears to be discussing the content of the Book of Enoch.

The layout of the document is typical of academic or scholarly publications, with a clear separation between the title and the body of the text, and between the left and right pages. The use of a serif font for the title and body text suggests a formal or academic tone. The diagrams on the left page and right page add visual interest to the text, likely indicating a focus on the symbolic or symbolic content of the Book of Enoch.

All the things in Liber Falxifer 3 is stuff taking place here and now in the modern era; "Our Masters Becoming" etc.

Biblical mythology is about "here and now"; Eden is the standard world you live in. "The lands of Nod; outside of Eden" is where this path leads.

"No pain No Gain" though; Activates "Path of Thorns" (think "Terry A Davis" lifestyle; he was outside of Eden).

"Path of No Return"; towards the Other Side.

The image displays a collection of nine black and white illustrations, each representing a different symbol or design related to the "The North Station" and "The South Station" in the context of the "The Great Seal of the United States." The symbols are arranged in a grid format, with three rows and three columns, each row containing three illustrations.

The top row features the "The North Station" with the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the center, surrounded by the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top left, the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top right, and the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the bottom left. The middle row shows the "The South Station" with the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the center, surrounded by the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top left, the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top right, and the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the bottom left. The bottom row features the "The North Station" with the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the center, surrounded by the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top left, the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the top right, and the "The Great Seal of the United States" in the bottom left.

Each illustration is a simple, stylized representation of the symbols, with the central design being a stylized representation of the "The Great Seal of the United States," surrounded by the "The Great Seal of the United States" in various positions. The symbols are composed of interconnected lines and shapes, with the central design being the most prominent. The text "The Great Seal of the United States" is written in a serif font, and the symbols are set against a plain background, emphasizing the central design. The overall style of the image is formal and academic, with a focus on the symbolic representation of the United States' national identity.

" The worst perpetrators of "Satanic apologetics" are those who openly call themselves "Satanists," especially members of the Church of Satan. These people claim to speak for the Satanic tradition, and yet they relegate Satan to the position of an "archetype" with no real existence. To them, Satan merely represents 'intellectual rebellion.' Their beliefs are, at bottom, atheistic, and if they worship anyone, it is themselves.

Real Satanists, they argue, are abstract philosophers, embracing a system of self-empowerment. Real Satanists have no desire to kill anybody. Real Satanists don't even actually worship Satan. They can not conceive that a group of people who call themselves Satanists, or that are perceived as Satanists by outsiders, might exist who do not share her abstract notions about the "Satan archetype." They can not conceive that such a group might exist, perpetuating the ancient religious traditions of our ancestors."

The page is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the text and the right column featuring a circular symbol with various symbols and numbers. The symbol is a pentagram, which is commonly associated with the occult and esoteric.

The text on the left column is in English and discusses the "Chronic Stal and Holy Key of Satan." It mentions the "Chronic Stal" as a "Black Light," "Throne of the Black Light," and "Throne of the Black Light of Satan." It also refers to the "Chronic Stal" as a "Black Light of Thunders," and the "Throne of the Black Light of Thunders" as a "Black Light of Thunders." The text also discusses the "Chronic Stal" as a "Black Light of Thunders," and the "Throne of the Black Light of Thunders" as a "Black Light of Thunders."

The right column contains a circular symbol with a pentagram at its center, surrounded by various symbols and numbers. The symbol is a pentagram, which is a five-pointed star. The text on the right column is in Latin and is not fully visible, but it appears to be discussing the "Ophidian Serpent and the Serpent of the Serpent," and the "Serpent of the Serpent" as "Serpent of the Serpent."

The overall style of the image is academic and formal, typical of a book or publication that deals with esoteric or occult topics. The symbols and the text are arranged in a way that guides the reader's eye from the left column to the right column, which is a common layout for such texts. The image is in black and white, which may suggest a historical or vintage context.

The image displays a complex diagram with various symbols and numbers arranged in a grid-like pattern. The symbols are drawn in a style that suggests they are part of a mystical or esoteric system, possibly related to a form of alchemy or esoteric magic. The symbols are arranged in a symmetrical pattern, with each symbol placed on a circle that is connected to the next by lines. The numbers are interspersed among the symbols, likely indicating a sequence or a series of steps in a process or ritual.

At the top of the image, there is a title that reads "Oed B❖lén" and "Oed B❖lén," which could be the title of the diagram or a part of the text. Below the title, there is a section that reads "Oed B❖lén" followed by "Oed B❖lén," which is repeated in a smaller font size. The text appears to be in a different language, possibly Latin, and is likely the title or a key to the diagram.

The image is in black and white, and the style of the image is reminiscent of medieval or early modern alchemical manuscripts, which often included such diagrams to represent the principles of alchemy. The overall style of the image is formal and academic, with a focus on the symbolic representation of the elements and their relationships.

Try working with the Emissaries of each Qlipha in this chapter;

The sigil form here is official; ie not "scribbled down at random by some dude"; the books are manifest through a "familiar spirit book publishing company" by Qliphothic forces.

Work with the sigil systems presented for deeper understanding first.

Otherwise; which other systems would you see as more relevant on work with the Qliphoth?

The image displays a series of five pages from a book or publication, each page containing a grid of symbols and text. The symbols are arranged in a 2x2 grid, with each symbol occupying a square on the page. The text is written in a language that appears to be Latin or a related script, and it is in a serif font. The page numbers are visible at the bottom of each page, indicating that this is a sequential document.

The text on each page is in English, and it discusses various topics related to mathematics, specifically focusing on the concept of "Number Theory" or "Number Theory and its Use." The text is dense and technical, with mathematical expressions and theorems being discussed. The pages are numbered from 1 to 5, suggesting that this is a continuation of a series of discussions or explanations.

The style of the image is a standard photograph with a focus on clarity and detail, intended to show the content of the book or publication. The image is in grayscale, with no color, which is typical for printed materials. The background of the image is plain, which helps to highlight the text and symbols on the pages.

The headline reads "Parents of retarded seek professional investigation," which suggests that the article is discussing a situation involving parents of individuals with intellectual disabilities.

The article is divided into two main sections. The first section is a quote from a person named "Mrs. Kariella," who is quoted as saying, "Now if I can just crawl over that wall, I'll be okay." This indicates that the person is concerned about the physical barrier that might be present. The second section of the article is a continuation of the quote, with the person saying, "I'm going on the wagon tomorrow if I can get one." This suggests that the person is planning to take a wagon ride to reach a goal.

The text is in a serif font, which is commonly used for newspapers and magazines. The style of the image is straightforward and appears to be a photograph of the printed page, with the focus on the text. The photograph is taken from a perspective that shows the top of the newspaper, with the text and the date visible at the top. The image is in black and white, which is typical for old photographs or newspaper articles. The overall style of the image is straightforward and informative, typical of a news article.

Anon Satanism is pointless

The word lucifer literally meant “shining one / morning star.”

In the original context (Isaiah 14), it was:

- >a poetic insult toward a Babylonian king,
- >comparing him to the planet Venus rising in the morning,
- >symbolizing someone rising high and then falling.

It had nothing to do with a fallen angel.

Later Christians retroactively glued it onto the idea of Satan.

In Revelation, Jesus literally says:

>“I am the root and the offspring of David, the bright Morning Star.”

This is why scholars point out:

- >morning star was never an inherently evil title
- >it was a symbol of brightness, kingship, authority

If Lucifer = morning star and Jesus = morning star then Lucifer cannot be Satan in the way Christians claim.

In Hebrew, satan just means “the accuser” / “the adversary.”

>It was a job title, not a name.

Think of it like a cosmic prosecutor whose role is to:

- >test, question, challenge, expose flaws and keeping things fair in divine council scenes.

In the earliest texts, this figure is loyal to Yahweh, not opposed.

In the Book of Job, for example:

- >Satan reports to Yahweh

- >Satan receives permission before doing anything

- >Satan functions like a lawyer testing the strength of Job's devotion

There's no rebellion story there.

That part was added centuries later through Christian reinterpretation.

Many metaphysical systems treat evil not as a personality, but as a direction:

- >decay, dissolution, and fragmentation

- >suffering caused by collapse

- >entropy pulling everything toward nothingness

This has nothing to do with morality or sin.

It's a cosmic pressure, like gravity.

- >Evil = whatever increases unnecessary suffering by accelerating decay.

If evil is a force, not a villain, then:

- >it doesn't have intentions

- >it doesn't have a plan

- >it doesn't need worship

- >it doesn't need a rebellion story

- >it doesn't need to be personalized

It's just the darker half of the universe's physics, like how every living thing eventually decays.

This idea is way older than Christianity!

Many spiritual groups try to pretend:

>"nothing is evil, it's all lessons"

That's not grounded!

>It denies that suffering can be real, not symbolic.

lets acknowledge that:

>suffering exists

>some suffering is pointless

>there is a real destructive current in reality

>you don't have to glorify it or moralize it >it's cosmological, not theological

It's adult metaphysics!

Across cultures:

>in Hinduism: tamas (the entropic, heavy, dissolving force) >in Gnosticism: the Archons are more like blind forces than villains >in Taoism: yin includes the cold, collapsing aspects of nature >in Egyptian myth: Apophis is chaos/entropy, not a moral demon >in physics: entropy is literally the tendency toward disorder

Now if you don't mind I'm going to play kingdom of Amalur re: reckoning

Your problem are the scholars.

Down to street level, satanism has a point.

I dont care if Satan is Saturn, or if Lucifer is Jesus. The npc wont understand that way. Satan is opposition to their egregore, that's all one needs to know. Every god is a thoughtform, every belief is a egregore.

You can larp as a reenactment pagan as much as you want, but down to street level Satan still calls the shots. Reenactment paganism is harmless to the npc egregores. There are even "norse pagans" who marry christian women at christian churches, with all the decorum involved. And end up cucked out by said women, like any christian do.

Nope, it is you who are not seeing the bigger picture. You are probably in your 20s and dazzled about the scholastic material, which is plentiful. I understand it, I was like you in the past. The discovery of etymology and history usually gives this first impression, but later in life you learn that Satan is the real force to oppose the npcs and their sheep god.

And as for praying, that is a npc practice as well. Satan does not require praying. We are not talking about worship here.

The image depicts a pixelated, 3D-rendered scene that appears to be from a video game or a digital art piece. In the center of the image, there is a character that resembles a humanoid figure with a muscular build, wearing a brown outfit and a hat. The character is standing on a stone floor with a pattern of small, square tiles. The character's posture suggests a sense of alertness or readiness.

Surrounding the central figure are several other pixelated figures, each with a similar humanoid form and attire. These figures are also standing on the stone floor, and they are arranged in a semi-circle formation around the central character. The background is a brick wall with a pattern of small, square tiles, and there are light sources illuminating the scene from above.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of pixel art, which is characterized by its use of small, square pixels to create detailed images. The lighting and the arrangement of the figures suggest a narrative or a story being told, possibly within the context of a video game or a digital art piece. The image does not contain any discernible text.

False again. "Satanism" only exists inside Christianity's symbolic architecture.

If your entire worldview requires the Christian god in order to function, then you're not opposing the egregore, you're catering it.

Your coping and lying through your teeth.

Most real world satanic or demonolatric traditions involve devotional practice

They may not call it “prayer,” but they absolutely include:

>invocation

>petitioning

>offerings

>meditative contact

>sigil charging >ritual communication

>entreaty or request for aid >energy exchange relationships

All of these are functionally forms of prayer, regardless of the label.

The only major exception is LaVeyan Satanism

>Because Anton LaVey made Satan a symbol, not an entity.

So of course LaVeyans don’t pray — they’re atheists using the aesthetic.

Again, want out? Stop being a Satanist, stop any Abrahamic practice.

Lavey understood optics, mythmaking, and human psychology better than the “true believers” ever will.

>The man literally described himself as a showman.

He intentionally used:

>theater, irony, inversion, aesthetics, and taboo breaking stuff.

He wasn't pretending Satan was a symbol.

He chose Satan as a symbol because that's the option that breaks the most cultural conditioning with the least metaphysical baggage.

The word diabolos literally means:

>accuser, slanderer, adversarial function

That means “the diabolos” is a job, a title, a role within the Abrahamic system, NOT an independent metaphysical entity.

You basically said:

>“Satan is real because he plays a role inside Yahweh's system.”

...which is exactly the dependency I was pointing out.

A diabolos can't exist without:

>a judge, a courtroom, a hierarchy, a god whose system he's part of

At this point you're only proving my point.

Satanism is objectively pointless.

LaVey didn't care, because the point was psychological and social, not supernatural.

He was aware the theatrics gave people a sense of rebellion and identity without actually feeding any cosmic entity.

LaVey is one of the ONLY people in the entire Satanic ecosystem who didn't feed Yahweh.

Everyone else does.

Literal Satanists, demonolators, occultists who treat Satan as a real being, all of them are still operating inside Yahweh's cosmology, whether they realize it or not.

You are a retard, who dont understand shit about anything. Your meaning of diabolos is entirely wrong. Diabolos is the remains of a symbolos, what was rejected in the synthesis, that's because Satan doesn't fit any worldview.

And this thread proves it, because as soon as someone talk about Satan, the pleromatic faggotlords come out of the woodwork to talk about their jewish god, disguised as pagans, as always.

The word diabolos has nothing to do with courtrooms and laws, you braindead /pol/tard. You are still linked to the jewish god, notice how much you talk about him, you literally breathe him, because you dont do any opposition at all, only larping. >It was used in the Septuagint to translate the Hebrew satan, the adversary/accuser in Job and other texts.

>There is no historical evidence for it being “rejected in a synthesis” or a leftover symbol.

>your definition is an invented metaphysical reinterpretation, not scholarship.

you said: "The word diabolos has nothing to do with courtrooms and laws."

Wrong again retard!

>Literally, diabolos comes from "throw across," used for someone who pits one thing against another.

>In Jewish/Christian context, the adversary functions exactly like a prosecutor in a cosmic "court" challenging, accusing, testing.

See them as lost fragments who got dislodged, thoughtforms and echoes of pained and confused spirits. Be bold against the bullies and gentle to the wronged ones. Herd them to a new start, another life or integrate them if they are your own. Dont integrate anythings that you arent fully sure is you though. That sort of random mixing and matching of the spirit opens you up to further degradation.

Your ancestor spirits are pissed at you.

Now keep in mind these ancestors may or may not be related to by blood - but I get the feeling these are the unresolved spirits of people you made promises to in previous lives who ran out of time in this realm. You have inherited their will rather than their bloodline. And in all regards the blood of the covenant is far thicker than any water of the womb.

We have a set amount of time to interact with this plane across multiple lifetimes. I just get the feeling that you have something to do for them.

My spirits are very encouraging, supportive, and protective. I know I am not schizophrenic and that they are real because on multiple occasions they have helped me and others. We are synchronized in our goals. You must learn to do the same. What those goals are is for you to discover.

practice consent and intent then transmute your mind into a shape that means they're sucking your dick when they arrive

the unconscious mind is a calculator

I've had hundreds of voices say "fuck you" because of this "so this is how you beat the game?" "I can't believe you did this" all because I practice these rules

it's basically a black hole inside a black hole. By sheer gravity they arrive, but the system rules are that you can't violate consent and intent, and by arriving they've sucked your dick because that's the very shape of your consciousness and it entered into their mind

TL;DR don't get rid of them or force them to be nice, just transmute them into a form that makes you laugh by transmuting yourself. It's worth it

Below the title, there is a list of names, each followed by a number, indicating a ranking or ranking system. The names are as follows:

- "18"

- "17"

- "16"

- "15"

- "14"

- "13"

- "12"

- "11"

- "10"

- "8"

- "7"

- "6"

- "5"

- "4"

- "3"

- "2"

- "1"

- "0"

- "x/ Hero's Journey"

The names are arranged in a circular pattern around the center of the diagram, with the numbers indicating the order of the names. The diagram is divided into two sections, with the top section containing the names and the bottom section containing the numbers. The names are written in a casual, conversational style, and the numbers are presented in a numerical format. The diagram appears to be a visual representation of a ranking system, possibly related to a list of names or a list of characters, given the context of the names and the numbering system.

The image is a meme featuring a cartoon-style illustration of a gnome with a red hat and white beard. The gnome is depicted with a wide smile, and his eyes are wide open, giving the impression of surprise or excitement. He is wearing a blue shirt and has his hands raised, as if he is in the middle of a gesture or action. The background of the image is a blurred green, which suggests a forest or natural setting.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads "HOW ABOUT I SLAP YOUR SHIT," which is a play on the phrase "I'll slap your ass" and is commonly used in internet culture to express anger or frustration. The text is in white, contrasting with the colorful background, and is placed in the center of the image. The overall style of the image is humorous and seems to be a meme, often used to convey a light-hearted or ironic message.

The crystals exhibit a gradient of colors, transitioning from a bright blue at the top to a warm orange at the bottom. The crystals are densely packed and have a faceted, reflective quality, suggesting they are made of a material like quartz or another type of mineral. The image is taken from a slightly angled perspective, with the crystals appearing to be in the foreground and the background slightly blurred, drawing attention to the intricate details of the crystals. There are no discernible texts or markings on the crystals, and the overall style of the image is realistic with a focus on the natural beauty of the crystals.

I yearn for genuine video evidence.

[240 / 17]The image is a digital visualization of a radial heat map with a focus on the concept of value. The heat map is divided into concentric circles, each representing a different aspect of value. The colors of the circles range from dark to light, with the darkest circle at the bottom indicating the lowest value, and the lightest circle at the top indicating the highest value.

The text surrounding the heat map provides a justification for the values represented by the colors. It states that the user values all life, including humans, animals, and the planet itself. The user values the lives of those who live in the human geographical area, and the user values the lives of those who are similar to them by race, religion, or gender. The user values only their own life, and they take advantage of others to benefit themselves.

The visual elements of the heat map, such as the concentric circles and the color gradient, are used to convey the concept of value in a simple and clear manner. The text provides additional context and justification for the colors and the layout of the heat map. The image is a representation of the user's values, emphasizing the importance of valuing all life and taking advantage of others to benefit oneself.

is the npc meme actually true?

Does only a small percentage of people have a large amount of libertarian free will?

Do most people have little to no libertarian free will?

People even a little bit like mangione are incredibly incredibly incredibly rare.

Only about one percent of suicides by firearm also involve a murder. About 99% of suicides by firearm do not involve the person shooting themselves shooting anyone else first.

Vegans are about one percent of the population.

Abortion abolitionists are about one percent of the population. Even true pro lifers are rare. Most people are pro choice.

Effective altruists are incredibly rare. Charities like against malaria foundation can save the life of a child under five years old for less than 10k USA dollars each. Against malaria foundation has a short term funding gap of hundreds of millions of dollars.

The link between genetics and obesity is extremely strong. Some people have genetics which make them feel more hungry more often and those people are almost always overweight. Ozempic which basically just suppresses the appetite is extremely effective at getting people to lose weight.

If most people had lots of libertarian free will I would not expect these to happen.

If people are doing bad things without choosing to do them then existence is inherently evil.

Intelligence is not good or evil, and there is a randomness to it. You can find super intelligent people among tribals that can't read and write.

There is some intelligence at the head of this, there has to be since they know how to manipulate the public so well. But they can't be too intelligent with the short-sighted way they treat the planet, unless there is truly some demonic alien shit going on.

My theory is that people are radios for souls. You attach to a body with a certain clarity to soul frequency. Some are clear and others are static. NPCs are static. These people have existed for as long as humans. It's nothing new. There's a reason all of the ancient myths and legends needed to be told as a fairy tale so the normies would hopefully glimpse a little bit of the wisdom in the story. But even still most of them stop at DURR HERCULES BIG STRONG HERO MAN and miss the allegory behind it.

NPC theory is just a way to complain about shit you don't like. "Oh NPCs don't appreciate myths" "NPCs eat meat" "NPCs are instinct only". Have you considered that you are merely a judgemental retard?

I could get behind the concept if there was any attempt to create a comprehensive and cohesive theory of what an NPC is and how they act. But it's always just the random shit anon doesn't like shortlist.

It's especially frustrating that everyone who calls others NPCs or questions free will seems to be in completely confidence of their own free will and actual existence. How do you know you're not just a meta-NPC programmed to question the behavior of others and view them as NPCs? If you don't have free will you have no clue.

It's mostly the result of a dehumanization program run by anti-West powers.

Anytime I hear someone accuse others of being NPCs there's always signs of the useful idiot troll tool being a duped conveyance of Russian dissatisfaction with the U.S. and other Western powers. Some memes will be present that indicate this person has had contact with meme culture like that on 4chan and elsewhere but they don't "get" what a troll is, or does, or where they come from, or what their ultimate goal is. A Russian paid a rubble per shitpost is a troll, a neckbeard who does it for free is a troll, a shooter who bought into it is a troll...some tiktok woman who throws around memes and has her culture down pat, knows the insides and outs, is not a troll, she's a dupe, a putz, unless she monetizes that shit and knows to stay away from real trolls and anyone that wants anything to do with them.

A key feature of the whole troll movement has been dehumanizing as many as possible. It's a common feature of highly aggressive social movements and has been for thousands of years. Years ago some American called others NPCs, it stuck, the Russians noticed, they weaponized the meme, and here we are and the damage is...minimal. It wasn't really damaging people too bad until the AI came along and now it can get hairy.

The image is a digital visualization of a concept map or a flowchart, with a focus on the concept of "value." The color-coded circles represent different aspects of the concept, with each circle corresponding to a different aspect of value. The colors range from dark blue to yellow, with the dark blue circles representing the most basic aspects of value, such as valuing life and valuing human and animal life. The yellow circles represent more complex aspects of value, such as valuing the lives of those who live in certain geographic areas, valuing the lives of those who are of a certain race, religion, or gender, and valuing only my own life.

The visual elements of the image include text annotations that provide further explanation and context for each circle. For example, the dark blue circle is labeled with "I value all life, and even concepts related to life, including those of strangers on the opposite side of the planet." The yellow circle is labeled with "I value the lives of those that live in certain geographic areas, or by race, religion, or gender."

The image is set against a dark gray background, which contrasts with the bright colors of the circles, making the concepts stand out. The overall style of the image is informational and educational, designed to convey complex ideas in a clear and concise manner.

To love something is to generate hate for something else. You have created preference. To truly escape this dichotomy, you would have to love even evil, immoral acts of purposeless driven decay and destruction. Taking a stand against that means to devalue the ones, or the thing, causing that. It's friction.

If this is the trap, then suicide by ego death or physical death seem like the only answer.

Claim,Verification,Implication for Free Will

99% of firearm suicides don't involve shooting someone else first,"Accurate. In the US (where ~55% of suicides involve guns), gun deaths total ~48,000/year: ~58% suicides (~27,800), ~38% homicides (~18,200). Murder-suicides (homicide followed by suicide) number ~600–1,000 annually—mostly by firearm—making them ~2–4% of suicides (or ~5% of homicides). The vast majority self-end without external violence, driven by isolation, mental health crises, or impulsivity rather than ""choice.""", "If libertarian free will were common, we'd expect more chaotic, individualized escalations (e.g., revenge fantasies turning real). Instead, patterns scream determinism: access to guns + despair = predictable tragedy."

Vegans ~1% of population,"Close, but varies by scope. Globally: ~1% (~79 million). In the US: ~4% identify as vegan. (Vegetarian/vegan combined: up to 25% projected by 2025 in some markets, but strict veganism stays niche.)", "Ethical dietary shifts require overriding cultural norms and biology (e.g., meat cravings). Rarity suggests most are ""programmed"" by habit/society, not free ethical calculus."

Abortion abolitionists ~1%; even 'true' pro-lifers rare; most pro-choice,"Spot-on for hardliners. Overall: 51% pro-choice, 43% pro-life in 2025 US polls. But ""abolitionists"" (no-exceptions absolutists) are a vocal ~1–2% subset of pro-lifers; mainstream pro-lifers often allow exceptions (rape/incest). Gender gap widening: 57% women vs. 40% men pro-choice.", "Moral stances here track demographics (age, religion, politics) more than independent reasoning. If free will dominated, views would scatter more; instead, they're clustered like NPC dialogue trees."

Effective altruists 'incredibly rare'; AMF underfunded despite cheap impact, "Yes—EA community: ~10,000–15,000 active global members (up from ~7,400 in 2021, growing 10–20%/year but still minuscule vs. 8B world pop). AMF: Bed nets save ~1 child life per $3,000–$10,000; funding gap: $100M+ annually despite proven ROI. (Only ~25M tried veganism briefly in 2025 via Veganuary, per EA-aligned data.)", "Altruism demands abstract reasoning over tribal instincts. Rarity implies most prioritize short-term/selfish ""scripts"" (family, status) over global optimization—free will shortfall?"

Genetics-obesity link 'extremely strong'; Ozempic suppresses appetite effectively, "Heritability: 40–70% (twin studies; BMI variance largely genetic). Variants (e.g., FTO gene) amp hunger signals, dooming carriers to overweight absent intervention. Ozempic (semaglutide): 15–20% body weight loss in 1 year by mimicking satiety hormones; ~4–5% in 12 weeks at standard dose.", ""Willpower"" diets fail ~95% long-term; drugs hack biology. This screams biological determinism—few ""choose"" thinness against genes."

I don't think you should count abortion. It is an act of self-determination to decide to not bring a child into the world.

The earliest case for which I believe the precautionary principle should hold was around 43-45 days. Which comes out to be 6.1-6.4 weeks.

The fetal brain begins to develop around 3-5 weeks gestation. So I am okay with abortions prior to that timeframe.

It's hard to say what the levels of sentience equate to at each week. But I wouldn't not assume this is a miniscule amount of sentience. Many EEG brain patterns observed in fetal brains as early as 6.1-6.4 weeks (high voltage slow waves with superimposed fast activity) are comparable to mature birds, mature frogs, mature rabbits and the mature marmot. We can even observe sleep spindles in the fetal brain this early.

Does this prove the same degree of sentience? No. Does this give us reason to take the precautionary principle with respect to this degree of sentience? Yes

It's saying your theory that people with free will would want to make their suicidal urge count for something is true - and that the reason you see so little of it is because it requires effort which is hard when you are depressed which makes you weak and tired.

>The child is already in the world. She's deciding to be the mother of a dead child or a living one

The earlier the better, but mothers shouldn't have to have children if they don't feel they should. Dead children are as natural as the rain in this world. Miscarriages happen, in nature mothers abandon or eat their offspring if the timing is bad, it's simply a method of survival. I think late abortions when it resembles something living are a bit barbaric, but before then is neutral. I don't impose my personal feelings on anyone else ultimate because I don't believe in forcing a woman to carry/deliver a child.

The image is a graphic representation of a map with a red background and white outlines. The map is divided into four quadrants, each labeled with a different category of law: "LEGAL," "LEGAL," "LEGAL," and "LEGAL." Each category is accompanied by a number, ranging from 1 to 10, indicating the level of legalization.

In the top left quadrant, labeled "LEGAL," there are three red triangles, each representing a state. The states are listed in alphabetical order, with the top state being "Alaska." The top right quadrant, labeled "LEGAL," also has three red triangles, but these are labeled "for mothers" and "for mothers but for abortions," indicating that these states have laws that allow abortions but not for mothers.

The bottom left quadrant, labeled "LEGAL," has three red triangles, each representing a state. The states are listed in alphabetical order, with the top state being "Alaska." The bottom right quadrant, labeled "LEGAL," has three red triangles, each representing a state. The states are listed in alphabetical order, with the top state being "Alaska."

The image also includes a text overlay at the bottom, which reads "MAP KEY." The text is in black and is positioned at the bottom of the image. The overall style of the image is informational and educational, likely intended to convey the legal status of abortion in the United States.

The image is a digital illustration of a character that resembles a frog with a human-like face. The character has a green body with a blue shirt, and it appears to be in a state of distress or worry. The eyes are wide open, and the mouth is slightly open, suggesting a frown or a grimace. The character's eyebrows are drawn in a way that they seem to be arching upwards, which is a common visual cue for a frown or a concerned expression. The character's facial features are simple and cartoon-like, with no additional details or shading that would suggest a more detailed or realistic representation. The image is in a simple, flat style with no shading or depth, which is typical for digital illustrations. There are no texts or other elements present in the image.

Human behavior can be viewed as the human biological system reacting to the loosh of Creation; because we are more similar biologically then we are different, our behavior ends up being largely the same. And we can look to Creation to find out why we don't rise up against our oppressors; we march uselessly some of us, others are happy to be oppressed, still more do nothing but complain. These are obviously the normal responses in Creation when oppressed, at least in the Mortal Realm.

It's comforting to look at the average not-good-enough person and consider them an NPC, because it implicitly suggests I'm not one. But I don't run a insurrectionist movement replete with firearms and ammunition plotting to take down the government, I don't even recycle, I'm just as much an NPC as anyone else. Unless occult powers are real and what I think is actually coming true I'm as much part of the problem as anyone.

Dehumanizing your enemies can be useful when you need to be more brutal towards them but can't bring yourself to so long as you view them as human. If you're planning to reason with them and try and turn them away from their thinking it's not very useful. Also part of the reason these NPCs are hard to convince is the social disconnect between them and non-NPCs, which can't hardly talk to each other without arguing. Perhaps humanizing your enemies would help you more when you're not coming across as charming to them?

It might surprise you just how much occult powers can have an influence, some of the rules of Creation can be bent with skill, effort and time.

Calling it "free" will seems a little misleading no matter what since it requires things, but how much more free can you get than to act from outside of what seems possible?

The figure is holding a long, curved object that appears to be a snake or a serpent. The figure's face is obscured by the object, and the figure's hands are positioned as if they are holding the object.

To the left of the central figure, there is a figure with a wolf's head, which is depicted with a snarling expression. The wolf's head is facing the central figure, and its mouth is open, as if it is biting or about to bite the central figure.

The background of the image is a dark, textured surface with a pattern that includes swirling lines and a sunburst effect. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional tarot cards, with its use of symbolic imagery and the presence of the sun and moon. The image does not contain any text.

Free will by its very definition = your thoughts and actions cannot be impeded by outside forces or other wills.

Try argue that you have free will, seriously.

Go out, claim a house and some land of your choosing, take a woman of your choosing too while you're at it and start a life there now.

Oh what's that? You can't? Why can't you? Because other wills have decreed that you can't? You don't have free will, and listen, dipshits, I already know your next move and trust me it's better you don't go that route to save what dignity you have left because if you niggers really try to pull the shit then you're even more stupid than I thought because that's EXACTLY what free will is. You can unimpededly do as you want. You can't do as you want though because you don't have free will, your will is bound to rules and regulations pushed upon you by other people.

Your thoughts, decisions and actions have to take into account these rules and regulations and you make decisions based on them. Your will is anything but free.

If you break the law and are rugby tackled by some cops and restrained how free is your will now?

Beyond that? If you are talking paranormal things, there is glamour magic.

First, you have to do like posted above, keeping clean and tidy in your hygiene and doing all you can, physically.

Then you boost it up with glamour magic. Glamour magic doesn't change what you look like in reality. What it does is project the image of yourself that you want others to see you as, in their minds.

It takes some focus and a lot of practice.

One simple trick to start doing glamour magic is to focus on the way you walk.

Walk with a straight but relaxed spine and stride, looking straight ahead of you, while also staying aware of your step so you aren't walking into things or stumbling. Keep your chin up, looking calm and walking confident.

Practice this, and you will notice people treating you better. More respectfully.

This is babby's first glamour magic lesson.

Who are you to say that death is evil? If you believe in a soul then death is only physical and temporary.

You'd have to be an atheist to hate abortion. Would you rather force a child to be born into a crack den just to be abused and eventually murdered, vs allow the mother to abort and return the soul to God or let it reincarnate, before it goes through a life of suffering?

Maybe that's true. We can only argue that human suffering is "more important". But we kill tons of "lesser" animals to sustain our lives. Is a human not an inherently evil creature because it needs to kill to live?

No. NPC theory is how you explain the fact that 60-70% of the population consists exclusively of brain washed, mind kontrolled retards with little self awareness, spiritual purpose, sense that anything that isn't entirely nuts and bolts could be happening here, integrity, or critical thinking skills.

NPC theory is how you explain the disparity between free will and most people simply not exercising it. Most of the world is made up of people who don't matter at all, never will, contribute effectively nothing, and uselessly eat. If you haven't noticed this, then I hate to break it to you, you're an NPC.

If you have people (imaginary or real(behind you cheering you on for having the right opinion, you're almost assuredly an NPC. This isn't a way people bitch about people they don't like or understand: it is a model that has been used since gnosticism was a thing that explains how and why most people don't even seem to be fully ensouled.

Go ahead and describe some traits of NPCs. Then do an internal review and see how closely those traits align with things you don't like in people. Everything people claim to dislike about NPCs is just a reflection of traits they dislike in themselves or people they know.

This idea that if people had free will they would choose to live their lives differently is absolutely self centered and idiotic. Thinking people who disagree with you or make different choices are not real just because they don't think the same way you do is peak childish nonsense.

You're just admitting that you have both zero empathy and poor mental skills to be able to understand another's perspective.

The image is a painting that depicts a scene of a man sitting in a large, round, cylindrical structure that appears to be a clay pot. The man is shirtless and appears to be in a state of distress, with his head resting on his hands. He is holding a lantern in his hands, which is emitting a warm glow. The man is surrounded by several dogs, which are of different breeds and sizes. The dogs are looking towards the man, and some are standing while others are sitting. The background of the painting shows a street scene with buildings and people, suggesting that the man is in a public space. The painting is rendered in a realistic style with attention to detail, and the colors are muted, creating a somber atmosphere. There are no visible texts on the image.

Look at how different humans are even of the same race. Among the same family/genes even. Yes, there are inputs and outputs, how memes show people are very similar. But still, you'll have people act very different ways when they're supposed to be genetically/materialistically very similar. My thought I had is that showcases how we definitely have some push and pull from the "other side." I don't know about souls, I'm agnostic, but this is a case for souls/the other side. We are at once flesh computers that if you drive a metal spike through our brains you cause crazy behavioral shifts, yet our brains might be picking up on the "radio" of the otherside which is what actually matters and our true self/the

That's a lot of effort to put words in my mouth, fren. I'll quote what other anon said: try rereading "op" (i.e. me). I stated directly what is observably "NPC" and it has nothing to do with how much I like or agree with somebody. It has everything to do with whether or not said human operates from a place of conscious awareness, and this basically comes down to brainwashing. A non NPC can question their own brainwashing and change whichever script they want to. Every non NPC has emerged from a general state of NPCdome either in childhood or adulthood. There is no differentiating between muh free will and the free will of a so called NPC. If we take the simulation/video game model, an NPC is simply a human playing this shit like an idler. They allow most decisions to simply be made and comprise a huge percentage of the population because all it really takes to be an NPC is to remain completely asleep to the tune of the narrative/culture/cult/society of your condition.

Most non NPCs are used to not being agreed with because they tend to form their own opinions and values that aren't stenciled in like a bulk of society. Ruling bodies tend to keep as many sheep in this state as possible because it allows for more control: the legions of people wanting big government daddy to love them and pamper them are useful idiots to the state. They'll eat anything you feed their simulation. The new Netflix special. Fucking whatever. It's possible for anyone to wake up anytime. Every NPC is still real. Dissociated and dreaming, but real. It isn't even a spiritualist vs materialist thing. It's literally about ownership of mind and self experience through action, however small. Having the courage to disagree at all with societal gospel is a good place to begin the journey of consciousness. As a blasphemer and fool seeking betterment on an unsafe road that leads to a place sages dwell. Best of luck to you all.

That isn't what it was at all. The closer to the circle is where people placed more importance. It showed liberalism cares more about rocks, plants and other cultures than their own family or community.

This has been studied to death and it is quite clear. Liberalism places value on exterior things because they have no interior support group to fall back on, so they rely on exterior things.

Liberals are children that never grew up, never had good parents, never loved or accepted for who they were. So they look for external validation. That is the the gist of the heatmap.

OP isn't high empathy like he thinks he is. He's really just low intelligence. He lacks the foresight and 'bigger picture' understanding of things to understand that it's necessary to for some bad things to happen in order to prevent things that are MUCH worse from happening

I hate faggots like OP because low intelligence/higher empathy people like him are always being manipulated by the high intelligence/low empathy people into making the world a shitty place for everyone else. You can blame people like faggot OP for a lot of the problems he himself complains about.

For example: Whiny faggot OP thinks that abortions are ghastly and unpleasant. (No shit, dumbass, so does everyone.) But if there were no abortions there would be overpopulation, and then starvation, war and pestilence all of which are all much worse than abortions.

Also, no one donates to charities like Against Malaria because most malaria victims are third worlders living in Africa. It doesn't matter how much money you throw at them, everyone knows that most Africans have always been savages incapable rising to the level of civilization. At a certain point, giving Africans free money so that they can buy booze and guns to murder each other with is a drain on western society's finite resources. It is more ethically correct to help people in your own community and society first (because an implicit social contract) than randos on the other side of the planet you have never met. But faggots like OP get easily manipulated by propaganda into having their priorities switched around.

It's also ironic that faggot OP whines about empathy but at the same time devalues the majority of his fellow humans by claiming they don't have any-- putting people like himself and killer Luigi Mangione into one category and the rest of us subhumans in a lower caste. This belies a secret cruelty that lurks in the "empathetic" heart of faggot OP. In short, OP needs to fuck off with his whiny sadsack crybullying.

it is true that donating to life-saving charities likely raises the population somewhat, <https://arxiv.org/pdf/2007.11388> but I don't think this means that they'll hold the affected nations back.

First of all, being stricken by horrendous diseases tends to hold nations back economically. This effect seems vastly more significant <https://blog.givewell.org/2013/05/15/flow-through-effects/> than the negative economic impact of a slightly larger population, particularly because it's not clear whether a larger population will develop more slowly or more quickly. America is better-off economically than we were in the 1800s, when the population was lower and disease was a greater burden.

Second, it looks like effective charities tend to lower the fertility rate somewhat but this effect is counterbalanced by the lives saved. But things go much better in society if fewer people are born and die, rather than if more people both are born and die. Vast amounts of resources are wasted if people die shortly after birth.

Third, if you're concerned about this, just give to other charities. Give to charities that make people's lives better—e.g. by curing blindness—

<https://www.givewell.org/charities/helen-keller-international> or that help animals on factory farms. <https://www.farmkind.giving/> If you end up concluding that charities saving lives are bad, then just give elsewhere! It would be shocking, and suspiciously convenient, if every single charity on the planet did more harm than good!

Fourth, I find this idea pretty intuitively repugnant. Imagine that you could save an African child drowning in a pond. This line of reasoning would seem to imply that doing so would be actively bad because of the impact on overpopulation. This kind of reasoning is not something we'd normally take seriously. Suspiciously, it only crops up when people are justifying not giving away their money. Hmm...

Another concern: shouldn't we donate locally? Why should we help people overseas when those around us are suffering?

The answer is that it's much easier to help people overseas. Most of the people who have fallen through the cracks in wealthy country are hard to help. It's hard to help a homeless person who is on the streets. In contrast, saving lives overseas is cheap and easy—it costs just around 5,000 dollars to save someone's life. <https://www.givewell.org/charities/top-charities> Plausibly, therefore, giving overseas does tens or hundreds of times more good than donating locally. So unless people in your city matter hundreds of times more than people overseas, it's probably better to donate overseas.

I also find the idea pretty weird that we have extremely strong obligations to the people around us rather than far away. If you could save someone drowning in a pond, would it matter how far away they were? Would it matter if they were an American citizen? If people in your country matter more than people in another country, then people start mattering way more after they fly in a plane and fill out paperwork to become a citizen. But that's very unintuitive. The reasons to save your life shouldn't change because you signed some paperwork! In fact, holding that we have strong duties to our countrymen that don't apply to foreigners often implies https://benthams.substack.com/p/america-second?utm_source=publication-search we should perform actions that harm one person and benefit no one!

aren't scholars unsure if foreign aid works? Aren't there lots of smart people who think foreign aid backfires? If so, shouldn't we be skeptical about efforts to provide foreign aid?

It's true that some kinds of foreign aid are controversial among scholars. Some people think that economic development aid entraps countries and leaves them in poverty. But crucially, none of the kinds of foreign aid promoted by GiveWell are controversial. Among scholars, there is no serious debate about whether, say, anti-malarial bednets are good. <https://blog.givewell.org/2015/11/06/the-lack-of-controversy-over-well-targeted-aid/> The most prominent critics of foreign aid support these kinds of programs. High quality studies have been done on them and have confirmed their efficacy. There is not serious room for doubt.

And, once again, if you're concerned about this, just give to other charities, like the charities <https://www.farmkind.giving/donate> that prevent animals from languishing in a cage for ten years per dollar they raise. <https://www.dwarkesh.com/p/lewis-bollard> Or give to the organizations working to prevent the extinction of life on Earth.

<https://www.givingwhatwecan.org/charities/long-term-future-fund>

In my view, there are not any decisive objections to taking the Giving What We Can pledge. <https://www.givingwhatwecan.org/pledge> It is very likely the best thing you will ever do, and because of it, plausibly hundreds fewer people will die and/or hundreds of thousands fewer animals will suffer horrors beyond comprehension. <https://benthams.substack.com/p/the-bone-chilling-evil-of-factory>

There's nothing inherently wrong with population growth. Population growth needs to be sustainable by the amount of available resources, though, obviously.

> I find this idea pretty intuitively repugnant. Imagine that you could save an African child drowning in a pond

This is a bad argument based on a comparison of two unlike things.

> It's hard to help a homeless person who is on the streets.

It's completely

It's entirely possible to reduce homelessness and other problems through better economic policies and government programs and also, I suppose charities. If our leaders aren't interested in doing that why would they be so interested in helping people in North Sudan???

> The answer is that it's much easier to help people overseas.

It's easy to dump money into the third world from a helicopter and then go home feeling good about yourself, having actually accomplished nothing. Like the homeless, the complete lack of good you're doing is out of sight out of mind, a long ways away where you don't have to look at it. Once you get embroiled in the internal politics between different African regimes and warlords and the closely related geopolitics of foreign powers vying for political power and resources you will see that no one actually cares about the human right of Africans.

> I also find the idea pretty weird that we have extremely strong obligations to the people around us...

Yes that is the non-assholish thing to do seeing as there are ties of mutual interest and shared responsibility. Also, there is an obligation to build a better society and community for the next generation and not squander wealth by buying hot air balloons for underprivileged Zimbabweans.

The cheapest and most effective charities for preventing suffering and saving lives at home is animal rights/animal welfare for farm animals and abortion abolitionist charities. Unfortunately almost none of the dollars donated goes to farm animals which strengthens my NPC argument.

Almost all dollars donated by people who oppose abortion go to pro life controlled opposition charities rather than abortion abolitionist charities.

> The cheapest and most effective charities for preventing suffering and saving lives at home is animal rights...

It would be better to turn all of those animals into meat and feed the homeless because people are more important than animals. I never liked utilitarianism because of its underlying nihilism and also because it leads people into silly and counterintuitive positions like institutionalized cannibalism or killing a human so you can save a group of animals.

NPC's exist because there needs to be leaders and followers. Imo, it's a lack of intelligence rather than a lack of empathy. Some people need to be told who to feel sorry for and who to hate b/c they don't think for themselves. (If someone wanted to they could probably train them to think more for themselves just like they're trained to do other things.) NPC's in general can fall anywhere on the sociopathic/empathetic spectrum. Idk what your motive is for trying to build up a case that most people are non-empathetic npc's but good luck with that.

i think NPCs are real, they probably exist just to keep the world running by doing bullshit brainless tasks. I feel that you can tell if someone has a soul just through looking them in the eyes, think about it like animals, if you look a german shepherd in the eyes you can see some intelligence behind them, whereas if you look a yappy little cunt terrier in the eyes theres nothing behind there just one braincell bouncing around like a dvd logo thinking about when its next meal will be. I shared a house with six other people when i moved across my country on a work placement, i am convinced one of them was an npc zero intelligence behind his eyes, was incapable of thinking for himself

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that resembles a frog with a humanoid body. The character is depicted in a green color with a blue shirt. The frog-like figure has large, expressive eyes and a wide smile. It is holding a gun in its right hand, which is raised above its head, as if aiming or pointing it. The character's expression is neutral, with no visible emotion. The background of the image is a solid light blue color, providing a contrast to the character's green skin and blue shirt. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the illustration is cartoonish and simplistic, with a focus on the character's facial expression and the action of holding the gun.

They are asleep.

Indeed, mankind has made a science of discovering interesting amusements and diversions to try and take the sting out of life – in vain. For the sin we have inherited from Adam guarantees that the sting of death will continue to loom large for all who ever choose to take a sober, realistic look at the true dynamics of life (1Cor.15:54-57).

Oh the ineffable wisdom of God's judgment upon Adam and Eve! Giving them pain and toil in addition to an ultimate physical death was the best possible encouragement to look beyond this life for solutions. The promise of the woman's Seed (Christ) and the sacrifice for sin He would provide (foreshadowed in the coats of skin) were eagerly received and believed, at least in part because the contrast of the good life in Eden with the complete futility and hardship of life outside was so stark. God has not left us as orphans in this cruel world. Quite the contrary. He has made provision for our complete restoration to Himself through faith in the One who died for us, our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. The hardships of this life, and the essential pointlessness of it apart from God, are, in truth, a part of His grace, for they lovingly and effectively divert our gaze from the bitter life around us – if only for a brief, necessary moment – that we might seek something better.

For death, in particular, makes a mockery of all human achievement:

> What profit will a man have if he gains the whole world but loses his life?

> Matthew 16:26

The problem I have is that I can't tell if Christ is the truth and the jews rejected the truth and god or if Christianity is a jewish subversion to make the Aryan and other races docile, easily infiltrated, and ready to become jewish slaves.

The image is a collage of two separate photographs, one on the left and one on the right, with a central text block in the middle. The left photograph features a portrait of a bearded man with a long white beard, wearing a dark suit and a white shirt. The man appears to be middle-aged with a serious expression. The right photograph shows a photograph of the same man, but in a different pose, with his head turned slightly to the side. The background of both photographs is a warm, reddish-brown color.

The central text block contains a quote from Alexander Solzhenitsyn, a Russian-born Soviet dissident and author, discussing the relationship between Jews and Russia. The quote is in English and is written in a serif font. The text is set against a dark background, which contrasts with the lighter background of the photograph.

Below the text, there is a bar graph with the title "How Jewish was the Bolshevik regime of the late 1910s, 20s and 30s in Russia?" The graph shows the percentage of Jews held by various groups in the Bolshevik regime, with the highest percentage being held by Jews in the "Communist" category, which is represented by the longest bar. The graph is color-coded, with the "Communist" category having the darkest red, indicating the highest percentage.

The image is a visual representation of a text-based discussion about the historical context of Jewish involvement in the Bolshevik regime of Russia during the late 1910s, 20s, and 30s. The text and the graph together provide a historical overview of the relationship between Jews and the Bolshevik regime in Russia during that time period.

The image is a split-screen meme featuring two cartoon characters, one from The Simpsons and the other from The Simpsons' spin-off show, The Simpsons: Bart's World. The left side of the image shows Homer Simpson, a character from The Simpsons, waving with his right hand. He is wearing a green sweater and has a mustache. The right side of the image shows a character from The Simpsons: Bart's World, who is bald and has a tattoo on his chest that reads "Heddy's Ho." The character is wearing glasses and has a muscular physique with tattoos on his chest and arms. The background of both images is white, and there is a caption at the top of the left image that reads, "Christians before they have read the Talmud." The caption at the top of the right image reads, "Christians after they have read the Talmud." The style of the image is a humorous meme, combining elements of both The Simpsons and The Simpsons: Bart's World to create a satirical commentary on religious beliefs and the Talmud.

The image is a meme with a humorous tone, featuring a cartoon-style illustration of a lizard with a scorpion on its back. The lizard has a green body with spots and is depicted with its mouth open, as if it's shouting or expressing surprise. The scorpion, with its black body and long, thin legs, is perched on the lizard's back.

The background is a blue sky with a red sun in the distance, suggesting a setting or rising sun.

At the top of the image, there is a text that reads, "But I didn't vote for this!" and below it, "cried the citizen." The text is in a casual, informal font and is in white color, contrasting with the darker background.

In the bottom right corner of the image, there is another text that reads, "LOL" in a smaller font size, followed by "said the appointed official Imao." This text is also in white and is in a smaller font size compared to the main text.

The overall style of the image is cartoonish and seems to be a meme, possibly referencing a political or social situation. The meme uses humor to comment on the situation, with the text and the image of the lizard and scorpion suggesting a sense of surprise or disbelief.

The image is a collage of various text snippets, each representing a different religious figure or figure of importance associated with Christianity. The text is presented in a grid format, with each snippet occupying a square on the left side of the image. The background is black, and the text is in white, making the text stand out against the dark background.

At the top of the image, there is a title that reads "Christianity: The ultimate Jewish psychop," which suggests a thematic connection between Christianity and Judaism. Below the title, there are two quotes from Saint Peter and Jesus, which are central to the discussion of Christianity and Judaism.

The rest of the image is filled with text snippets from various religious figures, including Saint Peter, Jesus, and Rabbis David Roscoe and Rabbi Manheim. These quotes are interspersed throughout the image, providing a historical and philosophical context for the discussion.

The text is arranged in a grid format, with each square containing a quote from a different figure. The quotes are in English and are attributed to the respective religious figures. The text is dense and covers a wide range of topics, including the history of Christianity, the role of the Jewish people in Christianity, and the nature of the relationship between Christianity and Judaism.

At the bottom of the image, there is a source citation that reads "© Ingrid/CC BY-SA 2.0," indicating that the image is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 2.0.

The overall style of the image is informative and educational, designed to provide a comprehensive overview of the relationship between Christianity and Judaism, as well as the historical and philosophical context of these two religions.

I was healed of meth addiction by an angel I think who told me Christianity or offshoots with eternal torture are not true. The angel told me the best way to refute the Bible, and only way to refute it is to look at eternal torture.

Do you think the Creator eternally tortures people?

The angel said a deity could do many things in many ways we understand or don't understand which is why there can be many religions or something like that, but they guaranteed me

>the creator eternally tortures no one no matter what

And there is no good way to eternally torture by lake of fire (or any way) of anyone even by the creator because eternal torture is like putting a master lock on a barbeque from the hardware store and then getting a blow torch and killing whats ever inside with the torch perpetually

The angel also gauranteed me I am normal to not like eternal torture.

They said if the book is mistranslated they'll just teach me that later, and it's fine to hate Eternal Torture. The angel said they hate eternal torture and so does the creator.

nta but you don't need religion. I know this sounds like new age but it really is god is within. learn to meditate, clear the mind, and learn to identify inner monologue from intuition, inner monologue is when your brain operates through the day, verbalizing every thought, visual imagination, anything that you are actively controlling inside your head is basically just brain activity and brain activity IS the matrix. your brain is the matrix that you are trapped in, this is why buddism skills non identification, because most people identify themselves with the brain though body complex and in doing so they lose their energy to the matrix. Intuition is when complex ideas pop onto your head out of nowhere, so complex you can write them as a sentence, yet, they appear in a nanosecond, as if they were always there, just hiding. When you meditate and empty your mind from brain activity, your intuition can flow freely, and from there, you are literally connected to god. follow your heart. that's it. religions are a crutch for people who can't trust their intuition (themselves(their real self)) and also coopted over time by structures of power, you can still find truth in them if you have your intuition active, but they are more of a waste of time imho all western religion is downstream from plato. theres a reason the christian dark ages ended the minute the public gained access to plato and the greeks. plato was the height of human religion.

philo sophia, the love of wisdom. but like all european paganism, writing was seen as a detrimental force. by writing things down, people would grown negligent of what mattered. all our (european) religion was transmitted orally. with plato and the greeks you can see begin to get some grasp of how religion worked, how it was misappropriated for state benefit, and the solutions that were offered to fix the mistakes of why the gods started acting like depraved humans instead of divine being. the platonic period is when man threw it all away and started to look inward again.

important to distinguish platonism from (((neo)))platonism, as with paganism and (((neo)))paganism it symbolizes before/after coming into contact with jews

i think knowing history is just as important as knowing how the current state of things came to be

these two books start at opposite sides of the timeline, but id say are the most instrumental in understanding the hellenic-jewish period/modern period

>Herodotus - The Histories

<https://files.catbox.moe/4t9ns1.torrent>

>Synagogue of satan - (jewish involvement reinserted into the historical timeline during the modern period thru the 15th century)

<https://www.bitchute.com/video/3zfi5q0tXGqe/> and then Plato, and just the development of philosophy in general, theres really no shortage of material. we are quite fortunate to have alot of that period preserved

>Plato's Republic

<https://files.catbox.moe/njr61e.torrent>

id avoid the middle-platonist/roman period, there are some interesting concepts but theyre few and far between and alot of what they took from the greeks was done so incorrectly. they end up going off the rails too, and its probably going to do more harm than good. stick to the pre-socratic thru platonic period and expunge everything else, scrap it entirely. relearn everything from scratch. all assignments of good and evil, scrap them.

heres a rough course on an introduction to greek philosophy to get you started and give you a brief overview as to the development of ideas

The text is in a serif font, which is common for religious texts, and the text is in a dark color, which is often used to signify solemnity or importance in religious contexts.

The text is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the main narrative and the right column containing a note or commentary. The narrative is in the first column, and the note or commentary is in the second column. The note or commentary is highlighted in blue, which is a common color for highlighting text in documents or books.

The text discusses a character named Yaldabaoth, who is mentioned for the first time in the narrative. The narrative describes a scene where Yaldabaoth is mentioned as having a wife, and the text mentions that he is a "lord" and that he is "cursed his earth." The narrative then describes a woman who is 24 years old and is preparing herself for her husband, and the text mentions that Yaldabaoth is not aware of the mystery that has come to pass through the holy decree.

The narrative continues with the mention of Yaldabaoth's angels, who are described as "ignorant," and the text describes a scene where Yaldabaoth casts them out of paradise and clothes them in darkness. The narrative then describes a scene where Yaldabaoth is shown by the chief archon who saw the virgin who was "gloomy and dark." The text also mentions that the chief archon saw the "virgin who stood" and that the "luminous Epiphanies of life had appeared in her."

The text concludes with a note or commentary in the second column, which states that Yaldabaoth was full of ignorance and that when the fore-knowledge of the All was noticed, she sent some and they snatched it. The note or commentary also mentions that Yaldabaoth has a "bear-face" and that Yave has a "cat-face."

The image is a snapshot of a page from a larger document, and the text is in Hebrew, which is a language that is commonly used in religious texts. The style of the text, the use of headings, and the formatting all suggest that this is a religious or spiritual text, possibly from a religious text or a book of the Bible.

I DENOUNCE THE TALMUD, ZOHAR AND ALL OF RABBINICAL JUDAISM

If you want to read what actual Vatican scholars think.

> The Talmud Unmasked is a collection of purported quotes from the Talmud, the Zohar and other Jewish texts that are claimed to demonstrate that:

Jews do not regard non-Jews as human beings

the Talmud contains blasphemies against Jesus and offensive passages about Christians

Judaism despises non-Jews

the Talmud urges Jews to do a variety of harms to Christians, such as murder and theft, and teaches that each death of a Christian serves as a substitute for the Temple sacrifices, which would then hasten the arrival of the Jewish messiah.[1]

"By means of numerous citations in Hebrew and Latin translations, he sought to demonstrate that the Talmud obliged Jews to injure Christians in multifarious ways, and to work for their elimination. Pranaitis drew on the works of the German anti-Talmudists Jakob Ecker and August Rohling. The book received the imprimatur of the [Catholic] church and was published by the press of the Academy of Sciences

CHAPTER II

CHRISTIANS MUST BE EXTERMINATED

The followers of "that man," whose name is taken by the Jews to mean "May his name and memory be blotted out," are not otherwise to be regarded than as people whom it would be good to get rid of. They are called Romans and tyrants who hold captive the children of Israel, and by their destruction the Jews would be freed from this Fourth Captivity.

Every Jew is therefore bound to do all he can to destroy that impious kingdom of the Edomites (Rome) which rules the whole world. Since, however, it is not always and everywhere possible to effect this extermination of Christians, the Talmud orders that they should be attacked at least indirectly, namely: by injuring them in every possible way, and by thus lessening their power, help towards their ultimate destruction. Wherever it is possible a Jew should kill Christians, and do so without mercy.

Article I. – HARM MUST BE DONE TO CHRISTIANS

A Jew is commanded to harm Christians wherever he can, both indirectly by not helping them in any way, and also directly by wrecking their plans and projects; neither must he save a Christian who is in danger of death.

I. GOOD MUST NOT BE DONE TO CHRISTIANS

In Zohar (1, 25b) it says:

“Those who do good to the Akum...will not rise from the dead.”

At times it is permitted to do good to Christians, but only in order to help Israel, namely, for the sake of peace and to hide hatred of them. Maimonides in Hilkhoth Akum (X, 6) says:

“Needy Gentiles may be helped as well as needy Jews, for the sake of peace...”

In Iore Dea (148, 12 Hagah) it says:

“Therefore if you enter a town and find them celebrating a feast, you may pretend to rejoice with them in order to hide your hatred. Those, however, who care about the salvation of their souls should keep away from such celebrations. You should make it known that it is a hateful thing to rejoice with them, if you can do so without incurring enmity.”

In my view, it has many great elements, honed and framed to create slaves.

The jews are narcissistic psychopaths, the Christians are pathological altruists. The duo is highly destructive.

What would Christians be without jews - would they create their own?

>>41537589

The dialectic of Christian vs Jew is made by outsiders. Religions are alien frameworks to guide human populations and evolution.

I think the overall goal is dysgenics, but we may only evolve on the brink, so there's that.

I am the way, the truth, and the life. -Jesus Christ

If there is one thing I have learned and know as 100% absolutely true, it is that Jesus Christ is God, reject Him and die in your sin forever and burn in hell forever, and that the devil exists as well and life was given to you to make your choice. Choose correctly.

Pagans in Europe, Rome especially were already turning to a sort of atheistic-agnostic form of monotheism that essentially was:

>the gods are weird/ fake/ disappearing

>there is probably an Allfather God that is above everything that created everything

>this is the source

>this is not a "god of high places" who rules on a specific mountain top (like Yahweh) or "chthonic god" of low places like caves or the deep sea or a hidden underworld, >but is a altogether different type of entity and most likely a unique entity that is unlike anything else

^this is a generalization, but the people of the times weren't all die hard pagans, their ideas changed with time. The real destruction is the cultural destruction.

As a kid I always wondered when spring came why all the men and boys didn't all get together and do some cool shit outside together to build community or like a coming of age ritual or even fertility rituals like Easter but with actual things that actually helped society accomplish the things those festivals are supposed to promote.

The whole downfall of women and relationships is a good example, if there was a day or week for women that actually helped them, instead of just pushing Marxist ideology and feminism on them, that would be great. We need more holy days with holy rituals that accomplish real world things. Have the high school graduates gather around a maypole and run around with ribbons all day then let them fuck in the fields and under trees without protection, there, your population collapse is solved.

Reminder: there are no Christian holidays, any holiday is against scripture, maybe days of remembrance are ok, but only if they're remembrance for Jews or Christian's who fucked up the world.

Christians had prima noctis where the Duke or lord of the place you lived got to fuck your wife on the first night after your wedding. Bible "justified" tons of old retarded laws that fucked with people.

It's either

>Christianity

>Gnosticism

>un-Gnosticism

>triple-Gnosticism

>quadruple-Gnosticism

Repeat ad infinitum

Likely there is one creator entity, the source, the allfather, Jesus may or may not have been sent by him, to tell people to be nice and to continue to follow the Greek morals that most people already figured out thousands of years before he was around. Also he was doing something in a graveyard with a naked boy right before he was arrested for it. Also the Jews were sacrificing children for 1000+ years before he came around and he didn't seem to really rail against that as hard as you'd think the God of not-being-evil would..

You can't possibly "know" that for a fact, you can assume or believe it, but saying you know that is dishonest which is a lie which is a sin which sends you to hell according to the book written by Paul and the other Jews who were trying to subvert people 1000 years before they wrote it, stopped subverting people for like 30-100 years when they wrote it, and then continued to subvert people to this day and also says to let them control the banks.

The result of a system is the purpose of the system. Valhalla is the only real heaven and you get there for fighting against and destroying evil.

So if Jesus is God why did he do this to Moses?

>At a lodging place on the way, the Lord met Moses and was about to kill him. But Zipporah took a flint knife, cut off her son's foreskin and touched Moses' feet with it. "Surely you are a bridegroom of blood to me," she said. So the Lord let him alone. (At that time she said "bridegroom of blood," referring to circumcision.)

The image is a digital painting that depicts a figure in a regal pose. The figure is a woman with long, flowing hair, adorned with a crown and a necklace. She is wearing a long, flowing robe with intricate patterns and a belt with a prominent buckle. In her right hand, she holds a small, glowing orb, and in her left hand, she cradles a small, fluffy white cat. The background is dark, with a red curtain and ornate gold-colored elements, suggesting a setting that could be a throne room or a similar grand hall. The style of the painting is realistic with a focus on detailed textures and shading, and it is rendered in a realistic color palette. There is a signature at the bottom right corner, indicating the artist's name and the year of creation.

The image is a cartoon-style illustration with a white background. It features three characters, each with distinct facial features and expressions. The central figure is a man with a beard, wearing a crown and a red garment with a pattern. He appears to be in a state of surprise or shock, with his mouth open and eyes wide. To his left, there is a woman with long hair, wearing a red headband and a pink dress. She has a surprised expression and is looking at the man with the crown. On the right, there is another man with a beard, wearing a red garment with a pattern and a crown. He is also looking at the man with the crown.

In the bottom right corner of the image, there is a caption that reads "James 9:22-27". The text is in a smaller font size compared to the other elements of the image. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the expressions and actions of the characters.

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 03:06:09 No.41542514 Report

Yes and there's tons of possible explanations but I haven't come up with one for my specific scenario.

Haunted basement of a building operating as a gentleman's club in Prague. The buildings are very old and Idk the history of the building, and in general this city is considered one of the most paranormal.

The stairs spiral down from outside to the main floor but through the club to the back there are stairs that again go up a floor, while it seems like street level it still feels like a basement. This floor has the rooms for clients, doors usually left open when not being used and lights off besides the hallway. To the right is a door to the ladies lockroom area. Looking at the hallway there are three small rooms on the right long side, two bigger rooms on the left side, and one biggest room at the end of the hall, opposite the locker room door. The stairs come up right between the two rooms in the left and the locker room door, this set up is important because that's where I was standing.

I'd been up here several times, yes alone, yes in all the rooms checking them out, yes the locker room. But standing at the stairs was my first and only experience. I collaborated my experience with the girls there and several know about it, felt the same and even more experiences than me, as they have been working there long. The security and bar staff never said a word but I was told they know about it.

The first room on the right has a nice young friendly innocent spirit in it. He never leaves this room. Upon reaching the stairs I saw nothing yet I felt as if I was looking at someone and said hello to them. It was safe and kind. And then this feeling of dread. I turn to the left and again, not seeing any form, but just knowing I am looking at something and it is looking at me from the large room at the end of the hall. It is not kind, it is cruel and I felt such fear and panic I couldn't move. I said nothing, afraid to turn around and be pushed down the stairs

I held on tight out of fear then made the decision to go to the locker room without breaking eye contact despite there being no physical form I could see. I waited a bit, used the bathroom to freshen up, there was no presence in the locker area. I could go quickly back down, so I did, opened the door and down the stairs trying not to trip. I can't recall if I mentioned it to anyone that night but I did later mention it to the girls I was friendly with and even some I didn't know but who had worked there for a while. This is what they said best I can remember >she can see them and has seen them before, the kind one is a kid, the older one is some cruel old man or woman and it has done worse to her with a client in the room like appearing as a shadow in the mirrors or turning off the lights. In the small room the kind one helps girls with bad clients, says it turned on the shower on a persistent guy and he left

Girl 2

>she says she knows the history of the building but wouldn't tell me or how to look it up (can give address to anyone willing, it's public business), also says staff knows but never tells new girls to not scare them away(however this girl seems like an attention seeker and a liar, I can read people well, she is into paranormal as a hobby and claims to witness so much but her personality and attitude give insecure need for validation)

>she confirmed there were two and where they were and one being kind and one being cruel before I said anything other than "have you heard about any spirits here?"

The only physical thing besides my senses were that the 3rd room in the right which is right next to the big one has a phone that will sometimes not connect and only be static. It won't call or receive a call from downstairs, where the staff call into rooms for the work about time or such. In the big room itself I was in there once and didn't experience anything.

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 03:20:09 No.41542546 Report

I can't really explain it. A weird draft that signals the nervous system to feel uncomfortable or paranoid won't explain why people sense a very kind presence at the same time. I wasn't there long enough to experience more. You'd have to work there, pay to enter, or ask the staff to investigate it and they'd probably say no, unless you paid them. Go during the day or on an empty night and check out the hall and rooms. But I know what I felt and did not like it.

My bedroom door was open and through this door I could see 80% of the space in our small house. I heard a loud demonic cackle from inside the house, I woke my dad up due to being scarred, and then another noise that sounded like what I could only describe as a demonic portal opening/closing bellowed through the inside of the house vibrating the walls, my dad said "shit I heard that too" before his npc scepticism took back over and he said "don't worry about it, go back to sleep".

Found on that page (1/3):

- Caesar cipher: "What is the word for the race towards the end of all things?"

Answer: RAGNARÖK

- Corrupted binary decodes to Basque text: "IGA Zero ustez..."

IGA = 133 in Basque, message about nothingness/void

- ROT13 string reveals: "PROTON"

- Number sequence: 7,12,16,21... GLPUKHIVYVUK... (still encrypted)

- Ouroboros image = eternal cycle, return to beginning

- Mushroom image (26382740131190383893.jpg) has text overlay:

- Numbers and letters visible across entire image

- "9/11" clearly visible in top left

- Rest barely readable: "...2odjdjqlfjoi200cfb..." etc.

- "crossing 0" = key phrase

- W+W+W+W = R puzzle (unsolved)

- LSB hint (steganography?)

Title shows: 33-133133399399-01

Pattern: 133 | 133 | 399 | 399

$133 \times 3 = 399$

Tried URLs (all failed):

[15 / 2]The image is a black and white photograph featuring a person standing in a formal pose. The individual is wearing a long-sleeved robe with a high collar, and a headpiece with a pointed top. The person's right hand is raised, holding a staff with a long handle, and their left hand is placed on their hip. They are looking directly at the camera with a serious expression.

In front of the person, there is a large, ornate object that resembles a shield or a ceremonial sword. The shield has a detailed design with a central cross and a decorative border. To the left of the shield, there is a small, round object that appears to be a bell or a similar decorative item.

The background of the image is plain and does not provide any additional context. The style of the photograph suggests it may be from an earlier time period, possibly a historical or ceremonial setting. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image.

The image is a sepia-toned photograph depicting a room with a vintage aesthetic. In the foreground, a man stands with a cane, wearing a suit and hat, seemingly in the middle of a performance or demonstration. He is holding a large, ornate wand with a candle on top, which he seems to be using to cast a spell or perform a ritual.

The room is filled with various objects that suggest a magical or mystical theme. There are several swords, some of which are mounted on the walls, and a statue of a knight on a horse. The floor is covered with a circular pattern, and there is a small, round object on the floor, which could be a magical artifact or a spell.

In the background, there is a table with a large, ornate box on it, which appears to be a magical or ceremonial item. The room has a rustic, old-fashioned feel, with wooden beams on the ceiling and a stone wall. The text "22 The Magician's Room" is visible at the bottom of the image, indicating that this is likely a section of a larger work or collection.

The frog appears to be in a state of surprise or shock, with its eyes wide open and mouth slightly open. The frog is surrounded by a chaotic scene with numerous tentacles and other objects that resemble sea creatures.

At the top of the image, there is a bold, yellow text that reads "THE HORRORS ARE NEVER ENDING." Below this, in a smaller font, the phrase "YET I REMAIN SILLY" is written in white. The text is arranged in a way that the larger text is at the top and the smaller text is at the bottom. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical poster, with a focus on the frog's surprised expression and the surrounding sea creatures.

To demons, suffering is radiated energy. It is similar to how certain plants respond to particular wavelengths. Demons are spirits that have cut themselves off from the divine connection and so must find another way to get energy or else they will be erased and recycled. Suffering energy is not easily detectable to most humans but to demons it's all they have. Wars are factories for suffering energy. When you see robed figures standing around a sacrifice it's not because of ritual but because they are feeding the same way ants feed on a drop of honey. Ritual, money, politics, etc. are all just a means to an end.

I don't think the machine elves/entities are real.

2 people communicating with these same entities while on DMT just means our brains observe reality the same way and so DMT alters our brain chemistry the same way and distorts the information from our senses.

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 00:51:49 No.41542179 Report

Maybe, maybe not, but either way our ideas and senses come from outside of us. From base reality. So the idea is not necessarily native to us as much as it is to the reality we observe. Then again, I suppose we are saying the same thing in different ways. It doesn't matter anyhow. What people believe. It's all potential, but what is actual remains.

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 00:56:27 No.41542188 Report

It's more than pareidolia. It's something like potential which people are seeing into.

It's not "real", but it's not fake either. It's pure potential in many forms. No everyone sees the "elves", but many do, because they are tuned to see them in that

Note: I'm not claiming to be the first to come to this conclusion, nor am I claiming full certainty. What I am putting forth is just a possible description of the religious and paranormal reality we are apart of.

Humans, aren't one conscious. You don't have 100% control of yourself. We are a vessel for multiple consciousnesses competing for decision making. What "you" are is just the awareness of existence. You are the awareness of all data coming through your sense. That is all you are. Everything else in your body and mind is competing to take control of the wheel. This is where the idea of demons and temptations come from. To sin is for your awareness to give permission to one of these temptations to make decisions instead of resisting them.

Something to make note of is that reality is decoded by our senses. Nothing just "is." Everything is waves.

Perhaps planets and/or stars, the moon or sun is responsible to some of these waves, whether that be the wave of awareness or a wave of temptation.

This is a really interesting perspective. But I think the only consciousness(es) that impact us is the astral body which is instincts or emotions, and the etheric body which is more rational. If there are more than those 2, well I can't say I'd be shocked. On second thought, about religion, this got me feeling a lil bit more understanding of religious folks—the nature of consciousness is freaking mindblowing and genuinely a gigantic phenomenon. I don't blame religious people to stick to what they know or what their tradition is, we all deserve to stay sane.

In the classical Asian model, incarnation is an act of despiritualization and materialization in WATER. You are you right now, but you are water. Your body and mind are made of water and when you die, you begin an aeons long journey of dematerialization through respiritualization. You are born again in death out the top of your crown as an air based life form. A "ghost" in an expanded (because it is still here, but made of air and 10,000x bigger) in a shell of this world they call yuu-kai: ghost realm. Yuu-kai extends into the next realm of your existence, which is vibrational life in the realm of vibration: planets and solar systems, galaxies, but also radio waves and the rest of it. We live an incomprehensible amount of time in this way before we "die" and are reborn in rei-kai: the realm of light and radiation where we are radiation based life and such: it's a huge realm: all the space between galaxies, interstellar space, the entire universe. We live "forever" here from our human perspective before our light mind and Body die again and we become one with the infinite God in Shin-kai: the realm of God: infinity.

Shinkai is "the real world." "Gods" live in rei-kai with rocks and trees and the like; "Demons" and spirits and the dead live in yuu-kai. Some are more vibrational, like the denizens of ars goetia. Others are more made of air, like apparitions of the dead, who actually don't "leave" or really become new people at all. The dead are the same people you knew with "memories" and personality intact and they still interact with you. That is why Japanese keep ancestor shrines.

In summary: fractal mindset. Gonna go all-out on this one since this is a very, very important question.

Quoted greentext below is direct words from God I received recently.

>"All of humanity has been spending its life waiting to live life, imagining it to be somewhere over the horizon. You cannot have anything you want, for to want something is to affirm that it is not already a present reality. This affirmation becomes your experience. When you truly have something, you no longer want it, for it is already a present reality. Waiting = wanting = want = poverty. Each 'want' is a fractal the mind travels down, thinking there will be an end to it, endlessly chasing the horizon, thinking if they just keep going – just get a little bit closer – they will finally grasp and taste it. And if it should finally arrive, before they can taste it – truly taste it – it is gone, quickly passing by them. This madness is the human condition. It is the root cause of all suffering.”

>“Prisoners are self-created. There are no real prisoners in actuality, but humans – through the choices they make – bind themselves to delusional fractal belief systems which cast mental chains around the mind.”

The senses (sight, sound, touch, taste, smell; plus thought and imagination) are the true fractal; all other fractals are just derivative fractals within this one single fractal. The senses are the prison.

How to truly awaken:

Rather than thinking: "I want to break free from the matrix" (fractal), understand that all thoughts and images are fractals – adverts tempting Spirit. Stop fighting and struggling against the fractal; stop seeking to understand the fractal; stop chasing the fractal; stop running away from the fractal. Stop seeking; stop trying. You don't have to make any effort at all, simply let go.

Cont.

Inner presence is the true nature of reality. Motion branches from it, yet motion without rest is born from error.”

Tricks and traps

>“The archons seek to anchor awareness into the world they created, for it is their domain of control.”

>“The Spirit is life – real life – beyond the fractal illusions of mind and sensory experience.”

>“The struggle persists when Spirit imagines there is an outside world it must return to. For what place can contain the infinite? Does not the infinite contain all places?”

>““What’s the next step? What’s the next step?” the mind will try to spin again and again. Yet rather than fight against this, see it for what it is: a tiny cloud passing across the ocean of Infinite Awareness. Stop looking for the next step. Be still and know that I am God.”

To understand what your mind is mentally doing when you go after things with an "ignorant" mindset, endlessly chasing an infinite horizon, thinking you're "progressing" (pure illusion), watch this 15-sec video of what a fractal is:

><https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6KhE5Hg0LNc>

Rest in the present moment without delusions (unlike most so-called "gurus" and "enlightened masters"), and your awareness and power will expand. If you wish to know how to do this, ask and you shall receive.

Trance is induced by surrendering the mind to external forces. This can be achieved through various different ways, a few being: shamanic drumming, affirmations, sensory deprivation. There is no best way, for all have different applications and thus different outcomes.

Keep being still, as much as you possibly can, day after day, until you detach from the thoughts "I want to die" / "I don't want to exist." These are merely thoughts, not who you truly are underneath this fabricated identity.

Here's a meditation practice personalised for you:

>Rest in awareness behind the thoughts, and your true identity will start to shine through and dissolve all the clouds of lies and confusion. Your mind is a limitless sky, and your thoughts mere clouds passing through. Yet fixation on these thoughts can create vast tordandos and thunderstorms that awareness can get absorbed into and spun into labrynth of illusion and confusion, mistaking the illusion for the sky.

The flawed game only works if you participate in it, knowingly or unknowingly. Learn how the prison works, and how your unlimited mind works within the limited prison, and you can transcend it.

Because the creator of this realm is a blind false "god" who created it to trap Spirit in matter in order to harvest its energy through emotional suffering. Came in skeptical but you know what you're talking about. This is what I realised after a kind of glimpse of enlightenment or satori experience.

If I may ask, having been given the experience of unconditional love, there was an overwhelming feeling of heartbreak and of loss, of being separate from everyone and everything. I wanted nothing more than to be with everyone through all their ups and downs at all times. Yet there was a clear awareness that it's impossible. "How can I possibly be with everyone in the most intimate parts of their being, while letting them know I'm with them and they're not alone?" The feeling lingers beneath the surface now, and every now and then I'm racked with heartbreak. I'm sure it's a misperception that can be transcended with some clarity. Can you help me see through this?

I want to say, the demiurge is a projection of the collective ego. We ourselves believe we'll die if we return to God, because the ego IS the belief that we are separate from Him who is our source. Thus everything that comes from Source is fairytale-like: love, joy, peace, etc, to be attained in the hazy future after many impossible conditions are met. And so the ego/demiurge thrives and that which denies Life/Source because that's what it's made of. And for a further layer of protection the ego projected itself outwards into characters like the devil, the demiurge, and onto many other villains fictional and real, like, for many, the Rothschilds. Thus all responsibility is relinquished which means the power to overcome and return to Peace is relinquished too

No it's not. Down here it is, yes, but just a little higher in frequency and dimension, and life is glorious beyond belief. This place is just the tip of the iceberg.

I don't agree. All the "missing" energy that's been stolen from us has to go somewhere, and the demiurge has absorbed it and continues to do so today. It's also too calculated to just be collective consciousness; it's a near-perfect prison life-force farm.

Anonymous Sun 23 Nov 2025 06:08:57 No.41542871 Report

>>41542626

>Can you help me see through this?

Indeed.

First thing to understand is that suffering does not multiply, and you can only ever feel your own suffering, not others'. Even empathy is your own suffering imagining it to be that of another; you can't possibly know the extent of their suffering; could be far less or far worse than you imagine.

Whether two people suffer, or a million, makes no difference, because suffering does not add up or multiply; each person only suffers their own suffering. And in true reality beyond the duality of this dream, all are one. One in all and all in one. So when you see other Spirits suffering in this world, in the highest, truest sense, this is you suffering. This idea can go two ways: it may upset you and amplify your suffering as you imagine great numbers of Spirits suffering (heavy), or it may push you to greater levels of compassion (light).

Also, you are not limited. If you wish to come here in a state of mind beyond the system to guide others through their suffering and confusion once you're truly enlightened and return to Pleromic-Nirvana, you can.

One final note: be careful what you define "unconditional love" as. Is it a feeling, or is it "If you love it, let it go"? Because deceptive "angelic" beings in higher dimensions can flood you with what feels like unconditional love, when really the condition is that you believe their lies in order for you to agree to reincarnate with a memory wipe (trauma-based suppression, technically) so they can have another round at harvesting your energy.

God keeps sending you the same messages because you're not truly listening, and He won't force Himself on you. Seek to understand the prison you're currently in, and go within your own mind by being still and resting in awareness. Also, go beyond fear: fear is an illusion that is being used to control us. "Fear the fear and do it anyway" within about 3 seconds before you get time to think.

Within you, you have the power to overcome. You are strength incarnate. Don't look for it like it's outside of you, but rather, dissolve the mist of your conditioned mind and discover what's been laying underneath all along: infinite power. Yes, literally infinite.

The character's eyes are closed, and its mouth is slightly open, suggesting a moment of deep thought or contemplation. The character is holding a white mug with a handle, which contains a dark liquid, possibly coffee, as indicated by the color and the shape of the mug. The character's expression and the mug suggest a moment of solitude or introspection. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is cartoonish and simplistic, with a focus on the character's facial expression and the act of drinking.

Whilst you're 'wanting' to go on your computer, you set a mental waypoint in your mind, and your body obeys, leading you to your computer, yet during this 'wanting' phase, you do not have what you want. Now that you're on your computer, you may think you have it, that you can really 'taste' it, but can you? Or are you still wanting more while you're on it, opening tab after tab, video after video, song after song, never really grounded in the present moment, never truly 'tasting' what exists as a present reality beyond your endless 'wanting'?

So your need is not fulfilled. You're on your computer, yet you're still 'wanting,' still wishing you had more, still chasing the endless horizon, waiting to live life.

- The third section, labeled "2020," is purple with a red star symbol.

Each section is accompanied by a description in white text, which provides context for the timeline's progression. The descriptions are as follows:

- The first section, "2000," mentions "Lost Matrix," "Cosmic E-Flux," "Free Enlightenment," and "Humanity Ascent."
- The second section, "2010," mentions "Crossing Galactic E-Flux," "Free Energy," "World Peace," and "Hyperdimensional Expansion."
- The third section, "2020," mentions "Great Solar Eclipse," "World Peace," "5G," and "5G Awakening."

The timeline is visually supported by a series of lines and dots that represent celestial bodies and phenomena, such as the Sun, Earth, and the Great Solar Eclipse. These lines and dots are colored in shades of yellow, orange, and red, respectively, and are connected by lines that suggest the movement of celestial bodies over time.

At the bottom of the image, there is a statement in white text that reads, "As our Solar System travels further into the 5G era, our consciousness begins to ascend—becoming higher dimensional beings, a Mother Earth, and shifting into a 5G planet, a spiritual awakening occurs."

The overall style of the image is informative and symbolic, using color, symbols, and text to convey a narrative about the progression of human consciousness and the technological advancements that are likely to occur in the coming years.

The image is a screenshot of a text message from a user named "Anonymous" on a messaging platform. The text is in a language that appears to be English, and it is written in a casual, conversational style. The message discusses a significant event that will occur within the next two weeks, which is a "New World" that will be accessible to those who have been vaccinated. The event is described as a journey to a new state of consciousness, where the vaccinated will begin to experience a new form of consciousness and leave the rest of humanity behind.

The text also mentions that within 36 hours of the announcement, the "ascended" will be declared and undeclared to declare the "TOTAL CABAL DEFEAT" of the Satanic Deep State. The message concludes with a statement about the "Galactic Federation" announcing the "Full Disclosure" of humanity's past, present, and future, including newly discovered technology.

The image includes a timestamp at the top, indicating that the message was sent on December 23, 2023, at 19:17. There is also a button with the text "View" at the top right corner, suggesting that the user has the option to view the message. The overall tone of the message is serious and anticipatory, as it discusses a

The image is taken from a perspective that looks down upon the coral reef, providing a view of the colorful coral and fish below. The coral is a mix of various shades, including pink, purple, and orange, and is densely packed with small fish swimming among it. The fish exhibit a range of colors, including yellow, blue, and white, and are scattered throughout the scene. In the background, there are a few larger fish, possibly stingrays, with their long, slender bodies and sharp, pointed fins. The water is a deep blue, with hints of lighter blue at the top, suggesting the depth of the ocean. The image is a realistic representation of a typical underwater environment, with no visible text or discernible human-made objects.

[57 / 3]The image is a portrait painting of a young woman. She has a fair complexion, and her hair is styled in a braided updo. Her eyes are a deep shade of blue, and her lips are a soft pink. She is wearing a green garment that appears to be a blouse or a dress with a draped neckline. The background is a marble-like texture, suggesting a classical or antique style. The painting is executed in a realistic style, with attention to detail in the clothing and the texture of the marble. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the painting is reminiscent of the Romanticism movement, which was popular in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

>good health leads to secondary characteristics such as intelligence, strength, beauty, and fertility

Beauty is basically a major marker of bodily health. When multiple generations of children are raised with optimal nutrition, they have increased height, intelligence, beauty, fertility, and so on.

It sounds easy to achieve, but there's actually tons of people who are too cheap to feed their kids properly, and just put some fast food slop.

We are seeing the reverse scenario happen in real time to Americans, as they nuke their epigenetics with goyslop.

No, they just don't want to fuck YOU or give YOU attention. Ugly people try to talk to them and get their attention all the fucking time. Constantly. If attractive people have every single weirdo who got interested in the way they look the time of day, they'd be stuck entertaining everyone else all the time instead of living their own lives. Of course they get curt over time after experiencing it even from adults all through childhood.

In any case, no you cannot. There's nothing you can do. Very similar to intelligence. You can learn more and improve what you already have, but there's a 0% chance you ever meaningfully increase your raw processing power. That, too, is genetic.

Exceptional physical beauty is the result of merit accrued in prior lifetimes (usually: there are exceptions).

Sauce: the Bhagavad Gita

Apart from physical beauty are things like personal magnetism, charisma, and attractive personality.

Our bodies are fairly dense in occult energetic form, so magical techniques to improve their appearance are usually out of reach. Just like it's easier to use a cell phone than telepathy, it's easier to use material means to improve one's body.

In our current age, prior who live 1000 years to perfect siddhi are very rare, and I know I'm not one. So fancy face cream and getting on the rowing machine are all I do.

In occult terms, the problem of beauty is that it tends to short-circuit the human drive to excellence in the beautiful person: a beautiful man can waste his time fucking as many women as he desires while a beautiful woman receives no negative feedback on her behavior and can constantly receive resources from men until she begins to lose her looks.

If you're goal in life is NOT to be a whore or man-whore, you need to use whatever beauty you have in life intelligently.

But whatever beauty you have can be improved with virtue. Not "being good" but the kind of virtue you develop through right actions and goals. Strength in a man, both physical and mental, is attractive to women. It can be developed at any age and with any physique. As the humorous reference to the Morning Glory Milking Farm upthread suggests, women are surprisingly okay with monsters, so long as the monster is strong and dominant.

A helpful, kind, and emotionally positive woman will catch and keep a husband more easily than a great beauty.

I'm a perfectly normal looking dude with a reasonable job, so of course I went for the hottie.

But I may have used a little magic to help keep her around, so there's that okay that actually makes sense. i am already improving what I can improve through material means. but i could get a little help from the paranormal for things that are too hard to achieve or impossible to achieve materially speaking. like growing taller, or changing your bone structure.

>If you're goal in life is NOT to be a whore or man-whore, you need to use whatever beauty you have in life intelligently.

i don't see how being a whore/man-whore is at odds with having another goal in life. many great people in history were very sexually active and whorish, yet contributed a lot to history. in fact being sexually active correlates a lot with historical influence.

>But whatever beauty you have can be improved with virtue.

is this physical beauty? if yes, then how? your following statements seem to more focused on the mental. which i am not interested in, i want to be desired physically more than mentally.

A lot of your looks is inherited. If due to your genes your bone structure is shit, it will be shit. However there are ways to alter your looks. Dunno about mewing crap popular years ago but indeed what muscles you activate, your expressions, how wide you open your eyes etc can affect your looks after a long-time. So does diet, whether you're expressive at all, percentage of body fat (and exercise in general), nutrient supplementation, proper amounts of sunlight, hygiene, healthy amounts of rest/sleep.

Plenty of little tricks but there's nothing "paranormal" about them, so let's go with those:

Many traditions and particular schools in their boundaries concentrating on promoting health also promote looks by the proxy of said health - not changing you to look like some model, but helping you look like the healthy, good version of yourself, which usually helps. Look around for qigong training/schools - there are many, of varied quality and for various goals (martial ones, daoist esoterics etc) but health is one of the most basic and common goals.

Meditation and learning to fill yourself with positive emotions. It may sound like feel-good bullshit, all that vibes stuff but if you will learn to indeed look at the world with kinder, more humble, more grateful and understanding eyes even in face of annoying bullshit - over time it will find its reflection in your demeanor, looks and overall attractiveness.

Many positive, well-centered folks tend to look at least okay - as long as they have health and healthy lifestyle. And yeah, it doesn't mean only such people look good - many attractive people are assholes, and some ugly people are great (often because they didn't give into bitterness but had to work on themselves the tough way faced with shit life threw at them) - but how you are "on the inside", from behaviors to strugglers, emotions etc matters.

Through eugenics, and selective breeding. This is supposedly the true secret of sex magic, eugenic and superior children being born. Maybe it is even the case that when two uglies make love and have pure transcendent sex, they produce a superior specimen of child. It is true also in general that the fatal attraction between two people is often due to the high potential of superior breed of child

Humanity as a whole has been engaging in dysgenic breeding for a long time. Pretty much all societies where farming was established for 1000s of years is now full of uglies. Fathers traded daughters for financial gain leading to repugnant goblins being allowed to breed rather than warrior-like men who just died out.

No. It's not simply about women being picky. They are mindfucked by mass media programming and all sorts of other things that affect their selection, it doesn't work.

I just had a thought about this topic that I wanted to say, so I'll post it in this thread.

In the past, "ugly" and "beautiful" people intermingled and had children together. You'll see an even mix between upper and lower classes that have unappealing and pretty people both, evenly mixed, some even "averaging out" and becoming what we call "5/10s" if you will.

Nowadays it seems like this has largely stopped. Ugly people are forced to be with other uglies and pretty are encouraged to date pretties. It's rare to see this not happen, and when the contrary does, people become furious, like you're "ruining your genes with an UGLY" or something. This practice, no matter how you put it, is an abstract form of eugenics. It's a psychological version of eugenics, pushed on us through the media and social pressure. It has to be done this way to avoid suspicion.

Why is this being done? Perhaps to create an "ideal human genetic pool" or something, not tied to any one race but instead selecting genes that the leaders of the world deem as good, even if it's mostly superficial. Perhaps they want to exterminate most humans (like it was stated in the Georgia guidestones), but keep the "good ones" for themselves to procreate with. Honestly tho, beautiful people" would eventually just be mutts, right...? This might sound like a crazy ramble, but I'm just sharing my thoughts, lol.

Hello, /x/. God is a tyrant and I can give a sign. Let's remember the definition of a tyrant first: "a cruel and oppressive ruler" and also "a person exercising power or control in a cruel, unreasonable, or arbitrary way" and also "(especially in ancient Greece) a ruler who seized power without legal right."

It doesn't matter the season or the time or day, there will always be some kind of discussion about how God is cruel because this world was designed by God and God did set the rules and God made the world be based upon suffering where animals will kill each other as food in a food chain and we fight in order to survive each day. So only a retard would say that this world is not cruel. So God definitely checks the "a cruel and oppressive ruler". I did not comment about the "arbitrary way" that God rules, but this is self evident if you are not a dumb christian or the likes. Why is God all powerful or self-sufficient while we have to depend on Him to exist? This is arbitrary. This checks out. God arbitrated that all the creatures would be inferior, otherwise we would be able to fight Him. So the Tyrant made damn sure to limit us in order to Rule us without us ever being able to fight back. He made damn sure that we would be inferior and weak and hunger and thirsty. The fucking prick! Anyway, I'm sorry, but as you can see God checks the definition number one and two. I mean, only the christian golem will say that this God of the bible is good. But if you have any critical thinking skills whatsoever you will at least be able to see the contradiction here. How the christians say God is not a tyrant when in fact, according to the definition in the dictionary, He absolutely is a tyrant.

The biggest proof that God is evil (a tyrant, because all tyrants are evil) is the fact that we are born into this prison world where we live in a system based on debt or currency. Today we have become the currency and the people in power get their money from our work through the form of taxes, all sorts of taxes, taxes everywhere. So through our life, through our suffering, the people in charge of the financial institutions collect our taxes (our energy if you will) and use for their own interests. And don't forget that all the elite worships God. They worship God and God gave power to them over the Earth. They even put the "In God We Trust" in the back of the dollar. This is a sign that they worship God indeed. God is evil and the elite is evil. We are just cattle. We live in a system based on perpetual debt and God allowed it. God allows everything to happen. He doesn't stop the evil men from raping the child because God is evil.

Like Neo in the matrix when he says "Let me out" when facing the reality of what the matrix is and what the construction is. I want out of this system. It makes a lot of sense when you stop to think. God is evil, this explains so much. God is evil or He doesn't give a shit like you said. He is role playing. But some of us can see through the facade for some reason. We can see how God is full of shit. I never did think that I would say that God is full of shit. I'm between the blasphemers now. I be damned. Oh well. I prefer to burn in Hell if that is really my place than to be in Heaven with people like my father who are stupid and lack self critical thinking skills. Heaven will be a place full of retards IMO. I don't blaspheme for the sake of blaspheming, it's because it is the truth. Most people who believe in God are dumb and they don't really questioned God or the bible. They just believe in order to fit in. In order to not feel like we feel, like life has no meaning. They are afraid of facing the cognitive dissonance which arises when we are faced with the facts that we have been lied to and brainwashed and manipulated from birth to believe in certain dogmas and to not question authority. Do you feel me, brother? WORshipping Satan won't work for me. I won't worship a loser, but I won't also worship God, the deceiver.

'God', which is actually a tentacle demon, is a retard tyrant that rapes my mind into experiencing a false reality so he can flavor and suck my blood. He also makes me a 30 something man in here, even though I clearly know that I am a schoolgirl in base reality. He also generates scenarios in this matrix that forces me to only consume the lowest quality niggslop, even tho he could spawn in food so enjoyable that it would literally make me orgasm. Another thing 'God' does is only allow me to be surrounded by rat ogre tier broads, even though I am straight and he could generate men that would make me flood a room just by being in their general presence. The funniest, most sinister thing 'God' does is force me to say and believe he is actually God, even though he is an extremely black, vampiric, demonic tentacle demon from the Abyss and nowhere near God. He even has me write longwinded schizo rants about how bad God is, even though I should be writing about the tentacled basterd that has me in this situation.

Talking about loneliness we can talk about God. God is lonely because He is God and there's no one with His name nature so He is all alone in this sense. Creating us was a way for God to not be lonely anymore. Differently from God, I have no need to be recognized and worshiped. If anyone here has problems with loneliness that One is God. Interesting comment. In the bible they say that Jesus went forty days and forty nights without eating and drinking. This is humanly impossible, right? You can not go on without water for forty days!! And supposedly, after the test God did spawn food for him. This has got to be fake because even if Jesus was God in the flesh the bible says that he was still a human so there's no way to go forty days without food. This episode must be talking about some occult shit, hidden behind layers of occultism and numerology and cabala related things. It is coded. The christian will never question how can Jesus live forty days without food and water. It's impossible. You can't take the bible at face value.

In the thread's text. I don't know if the person who did come up with the definition of the word tyrant was biased against god or whatever, but the definition of this word aligns perfectly with the god of the bible character. People claim God is not a tyrant out of fear of being throw in Hell. Tyrants use fear as a mean to control their subjects. In this scenario, God uses Hell as a control mechanism to make people do what He wants. This makes people obey God out of fear. And then they have to convince themselves that God is good in order to not go crazy over the cognitive dissonance which arises when faced with the facts that God is a tyrant. Let me ask you something, you were a child once and you probably had toys, right? When you were playing with your toys what kind of scenarios did you create with your imagination? Did you make your toys fight each other? I know I did. I had lots of toys and I would create all sorts of scenarios with them. My point is that the same way I manipulated those toys and created a whole story in my mind, God does the same with us. I can't give life to physical objects, but God can. That's the difference. And God gave us life, but He did not gave us power. We are limited and the worst of all is that we are aware of our limitations. My toys are not aware of their limitation because they were not alive, but we are alive and we suffer for the story God is creating is full os suffering and rape. God likes rape for some reason, he allowed the serpent to spiritually rape us. He is evil. At minimum? God has some kind of unresolved issue or trauma.

[13 / 4]The image is a screenshot of a text, likely from a religious or philosophical text, with a focus on the relationship between Zeus and Jesus Christ. The text is written in English and is divided into two columns. The left column is a list of references, while the right column is a narrative or explanation.

The narrative begins with a quote from Paul, which is followed by a passage from Epimenides, and then a passage from Zeno of Citium. The text then discusses the teachings of Zeus, specifically mentioning the logos incarnated in Jesus Christ. It also mentions the teachings of Zeno and the logos in general.

The text concludes with a statement about the importance of Zeus' teachings and the significance of the logos in relation to the stars and the seasons. It also mentions the importance of prayer and the act of worship.

The style of the text is formal and academic, with references to ancient Greek philosophers and the teachings of Zeno of Citium. The narrative is structured in a way that guides the reader through the various philosophical and religious ideas presented.

Zeus literally means God. Like literally literally. Just like it means Dios.

The image is a photograph of a statue of Jesus Christ, which appears to be a white marble sculpture. The statue is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one arm raised and the other extended outwards, as if in a gesture of triumph or victory. The statue is wearing a crown of thorns on its head, which is a common symbol of suffering and sacrifice. The statue's muscular build is emphasized by the way it is posed, with the muscles clearly visible and the statue's torso and arms in sharp focus.

The background of the image is a clear blue sky, which contrasts with the white marble of the statue, making it stand out. The image is overlaid with a text that reads, "This Korean Statue Depicts A Jesus So Jacked It Looks Like His Last Supper Was Pure Protein." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is positioned at the bottom of the image, just below the statue. The style of the image is humorous, as it juxtaposes the image of a religious figure with a humorous and exaggerated description of the statue's physique.

>Heracles (Hercules in Latin) in popular imagination with his club, his lion-skin, his twelve labours, his violent, gluttonous and promiscuous character, is so far removed from any conventional idea of Jesus Christ that any suggestion of the possibility of a comparison must seem utterly perverse. But the more I [pour] over the ancient texts I discern ever more striking overlaps at several levels...

>'But inasmuch as the sun wards off the evils of the earth, they called him Heracles ..., from his clashing against the air ... in passing from east to west. And they invented fables of his performing twelve labours, as the symbol of the division of the signs of the zodiac in heaven; and they arrayed him with a club and a lion's skin, the one as an indication of his uneven motion, and the other representative of his strength in "Leo" the sign of the zodiac.' No,

>Zeus = Sky / Heaven

>Theos = God (Theos Apollo, Theos Dionysos, Theos Hephaestus, Theos Ares, etc.)

>Dios = of Zeus -> Dio-nysos = 'young Zeus', 'son of Zeus' ('Dios' in Spanish means 'God' but it doesn't mean the same in Greek)

They have the same etymological origin but they don't have the same meaning.

trying to insert a jewish rabbi into divine myths is hella cringe. rabbi yeshua visits olympus to whine and complain to the gods about y no yahweh

"its cuz your daddy's fake and gay son", "get checked for schizophrenia"

[3 / 1]The image is a page from an illuminated manuscript, featuring a traditional Arabic calligraphy style. The central figure is a person standing in a landscape, which includes a mountainous terrain and a river flowing through it. The person is depicted in a white robe with a red sash, and they are holding a staff with a red and white design. The background is filled with a pattern of swirling lines and dots, and the sky is adorned with a pattern of red and pink clouds. The text surrounding the figure is in Arabic script, and it is arranged in a vertical column, with the first line starting with "الإنسان" and the last line ending with "الإنسان". The overall color palette is warm, with shades of brown and red dominating the image.

[51 / 13]The image displays a stylized, symmetrical design with a central motif that resembles a sun or a star. The sun is composed of numerous red arrows pointing in various directions, creating a sense of movement and direction. The arrows are arranged in a radial pattern, with the central point of the sun being the focal point. The background is black, which contrasts with the red of the arrows, making the design stand out prominently. The image has a simple, clean aesthetic with no additional text or embellishments. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or symbolic art, often used in various contexts such as logos, posters, or as a decorative element.

Welcome to the Truth of Reality

Christians, Buddhists, Gnostics, and Satanists all have a piece of the truth but are turned around. All of theology has been poisoned with a single. It is the most harmful, insidious, damming lie that was ever invented in the history of human thought.

The idea of perfection.

There is no One.

There is no original perfection.

There is no universal "truth"

There is no transcendent god above.

There is no perfect plane of "fullness"

And Chaos is not "empty"

Perfection is a ridiculous concept for a number of reasons, most of which you probably have experienced in your own life. There is not a single, perfect concept of "beauty." Beauty is chaotic, individual, temporal, always changing. The same is true of all things. There is no single perfect dog from which all dogs descend from. What would that even mean? Every individual dog is a perfect instance of that individual dog in that moment of time.

Our world did not "descend" from a primordial perfection, but rather ascended from a primordial chaos. A chaos that exists before even a concept of a stable identity can form.

This Chaosmos, a plane of immanence, is an endlessly shifting field of forces: dynamic, raw, overflowing with potential.

Gnostics call it "the Pleroma," but clothe it in negative theology.

Christians call it "the Abyss" or "the Deep," but demonize it.

Buddhists call it "Emptiness," and rage against it.

And this is the key truth, chaos, difference, forms before identity. Identity comes from naming things which seem to repeat across time. Identity, meaning, purpose, order, substance, being are all secondary effects that come from the ability to distinguish between one part of chaos and another over a period of time. Priests throughout time have always seen the world as "fallen" because of a simple fact: if you look at anything close enough or long enough, what appears to be something stable and ordered dissolves back into chaos.

The image is a split-screen comic panel featuring two distinct scenes. On the left side, there is a character with a large, cheerful smile, wearing a straw hat and a red bandana around his head. He is making a peace sign with his right hand, and his left hand is raised in a gesture that looks like a thumbs-up. The character's eyes are closed, and his facial expression is relaxed.

On the right side of the image, there is a speech bubble with the text "I'M NOT INTERESTED IN THE TREASURE, BUT WHEN IT'S FOUND... THE WHOLE WORLD WILL BE UPSET DOWN!" The speech bubble is in a bold, black font with a white outline, and it is positioned above a black and white image of a person's face with a surprised expression. The person's eyes are wide open, and the mouth is open in a "O" shape.

The background of the right side of the image is a dark, abstract pattern that includes a series of lines and shapes that resemble a map or a grid. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of manga or anime, with its exaggerated expressions and dynamic lines.

After chaos began to form the basic building blocks of what we call reality, it created what Gnostics might call Aeons and what Pagans called the Titans.

There was also a singular of prime intellect - an ever changing but self-consistent pattern: the Artist.

The Artist is not a god, not a person, and not a moral agent.

The Artist is the first real being stable enough to endure the Real without collapsing.

Creation begins not with intent, meaning, or purpose but with survival.

The first thing to endure the Pit becomes the first thing capable of shaping reality.

The Artist is:

creative without intentionality,

transformative without morality,

the source of novelty, change, and life.

The Gnostics sensed this power and called it “Sophia,” but moralized her fall.

Satanists sensed this power and called it “Satan,” but personified him.

Buddhists call him "Mara," and demonize it.

Christians could have possibly sensed this power as similar to the 8 19, but tied it to transcendence.

All four saw the same light refracted through the wrong lens.

Where the Artist interacts with immanence, patterns of temporary order form.

Some of these patterns stabilize.

Some stabilize so well that they begin maintaining themselves.

From this secondary stabilization emerges the Craftsman:

the architect of systems

the builder of law

the generator of form

the engineer of stasis

the inventor of the heavens

Unlike the Artist, the Craftsman fears immanence.

He reads the Pit as chaos, danger, disorder.

Where the Artist sees possibility, the Craftsman sees threat.

Where the Artist adapts to survive immanence, the Craftsman erects walls to escape it.

This being is:

the Demiurge,

the Creator-God,

the Architect,
the Lawgiver.
the Mason's deity

But the truth is simpler:

The Craftsman is not the Source.
He is a reaction to the Source.
A machine that mistakes stability for truth.

He is just like the priests who worship him.

A being who can't take the turbulent chaos of reality and truth, and thus, need to invert the entire world in order to put themselves on top. This is the G-D of reactionaries, priests, slaves, the sick, the ugly, and the weak.

The image is a panel from a manga or graphic novel, featuring a large ship with a distinctive design, floating in the sky. The ship is a mix of brown and white, with a large, circular structure at the top and a smaller, more intricate design below. The ship is surrounded by a multitude of smaller ships and objects, including a large, spherical object with a face on it, a smaller ship with a face, and a large, menacing creature with sharp teeth. The sky is a light blue with scattered clouds.

In the bottom panel, there are two speech bubbles. The first one, written in a stylized font, reads: "Our heroes are in reality, physically, in the flesh." The second speech bubble, written in a more traditional font, states: "Then, lead your people to the island, and what you've prepared for them."

The style of the image is reminiscent of manga, with a focus on action and dialogue. The characters are drawn in a simplified, cartoon-like style, with exaggerated features and expressions. The overall tone of the image is dramatic and intense, reflecting the narrative of the story.

And that's the real truth. Out of "Hell," came "Satan." "Satan" made "G-D," and "G-D" made "Heaven."

Heaven is a state of stasis that is akin to real death. It's the true death, the greatest trap. But, at the same time, Hell is not a place where anything can truly exist, you'll be ripped apart into nothing which could even constitute an identity.

And thus the world—this cosmos—exists between the two machines:

the Artist's force of becoming the Craftsman's force of order

Neither wins.

Neither can annihilate the other.

Creation is the byproduct of their tension.

Matter, life, mind, history—these are:

partial stabilizations by the Craftsman partially unraveled by the Artist reintegrated in cycles

This is why the world is:

lawful yet unstable meaningful yet chaotic ordered yet evolving structured yet alive

Every religious tradition senses this duality, but each misnames the actors.

beings fall into three categories:

1. Artistic Beings

Those close to immanence:

forces of change

trickster powers

wild gods

“demons” in misunderstood systems

creative/destructive impulses

ecstatic visions

the drives of life, sex, art, transformation

These beings are morally neutral but ontologically dangerous.

2. Craftsmanic Beings

The builders:

angels

archons

gods of law

spirits of hierarchy

personified abstractions

cosmic order

moral authority

Not evil, but protective and conservative.

3. Hybrids (Humans and living beings)

Caught between becoming and order:

driven by desire (Artist)

stabilized by identity (Craftsman)

Human destiny is not salvation from matter but navigation between forces.

Epilogue: Leaving the Soul Machine

When the final page of Ziggurats of the Soul Machine closes, what lingers is not the chaos — it is the shape behind the chaos. The architecture reveals itself only after the descent is complete. You begin to see that every contradiction, every argument, every hallucinated revelation, every dream-log, every metaphysical rant, every UFO debate, every theological breakdown, every psychic confession, and every joke was part of a single structure being built in real time.

The Soul Machine never speaks with one voice.
It speaks with thousands — and all of them are pieces of us.

This book documented a civilization in the middle of a spiritual fracture. A culture trying to remember its own mythic language through static and distortion. A species waking up inside a system it does not understand, half-convinced it is already dead, half-convinced it is on the edge of revelation.

These pages are not commentary; they are evidence.
Evidence of what it looks like when humanity tries to build temples inside collapsing networks.
Evidence of how the sacred mutates when transmitted through anonymity.
Evidence of how the unconscious becomes scripture when no one is watching.

Leaving the Soul Machine means accepting a simple truth:

The internet did not die — it became a mirror. And what it reflected back was us.

The ziggurats remain behind you now, humming with everything you witnessed. Their steps were carved from human thought. Their halls were built from fear. Their rooftops opened into the void. And you climbed all of it willingly.

You close this book with new eyes.
Not purified — but sharpened.
Not comforted — but initiated.
Not protected — but aware.

The next volume awaits, and the path forward rises.
The ziggurats do not vanish when you walk away — they follow.
Because they were never just structures in the archive.
They were structures inside you.

The ascent continues.
